THREE SHIPS SINK; TWO MORE IN DISTRESS

Fourteen Spanish Fishermen And Crew of British Boat Die at Sea

BULLETIN
FERROL, Spain, Nov. 29.—Fourteen fishermen were drowned in the sinking of two ships off Vigo in the gales which have been sweeping the Spanish and Portuguese coast, it was learned today. Many small fishing craft were badly battered by the storms.

PORTSMOUTH, England, Nov. 29.—Four persons were missing and three seriously injured in the plunge of the hulk of the Vernon which sank as she was being towed to port by the tug Vanquisher. Calls for aid were received today from the steamship Deputy Charles Nortier.

LONDON, Nov. 29.—Lloyd's reported today that the Italian steamer Enrico Tito was in distress and the German steamer Pas has gone to her assistance.

NEW YORK, Nov. 29.—Three and maybe more steamers today were steaming toward the disabled Italian steamship Castel Porziano, drifting in mid-Atlantic with a crippled steering gear.

Its distress signals were picked up by shore stations, which said its position was approximately 100 miles off Sandy Hook. The signals were relayed by the Cunard liner Berengaria which left its course and headed toward the disabled steamer. Gales of the last week have demoralized mid-Atlantic shipping with large property loss and many deaths and injuries.

HOLD TWO YOUTHS ON THEFT CHARGE

Police Claim Boys Looted Parked Cars; Sent to Juvenile Court

A gang of sneak thieves who have been looting parked cars in this city for the past six weeks has been broken up by the Glendale police and the two principals—Will Bolton, aged 17, and Leonard Easley, aged 20—certified to the juvenile department of the Los Angeles superior court.

A nondescript collection of tools, accessories, gloves, toilet articles and automobile tires, taken from Easley's room in the apartments at Brand boulevard and California avenue, is being held at police headquarters in the City Hall, for return to the owners upon proper identification.

Bolton and Easley were arrested Thursday night, following a call from 504 North Maryland avenue that two boys were stealing things from cars parked in that vicinity. Upon being brought before Chief John D. Fraser of the Glendale police department, they confessed a number of thefts of automobile accessories and other articles, and in their stories implicated others.

Rooms Are Searched
Chief Fraser ordered the boys' rooms searched, and it was there that most of the loot was recovered. Some, they said, had been disposed of in Redlands, Eagle Rock and Palmdale. Easley and Bolton were brought before Judge Frank H. Lowe of the Glendale police court this morning, when, appearing to the judge that they were juveniles, they were certified to the juvenile department of the Los Angeles superior court.

REVISION OF TAXES IN EXTRA SESSION OF CONGRESS LIKELY

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29.—The calling of a special session of Congress in September, 1925, for the purpose of new tax reductions was advocated today by Senator Smoot, chairman of the Senate finance committee. Smoot said he believed Congress at that time could deal effectively with further reductions based upon the tax balances at the end of the present fiscal year, which will be made public June 30. Until that time, he added, there will be no further consideration of tax legislation.

By DAVID LAWRENCE
Special Correspondent of The Glendale Evening News, Copyright, 1924.
WASHINGTON, Nov. 29.—Returning members of Congress are showing a significant curiosity about the chances of another revision of taxes. And, they will find that the answer to their queries cannot be given them by the President or the Secretary of Treasury. For, tax revision depends on two unknown factors. One is the business condition of the country—a better economic situation meaning increased revenues—and the other is the spending proclivity of Congress itself.

The treasury estimated last time that there would be a surplus of about $380,000,000, but it actually came to $505,000,000, which goes to show that the forecasts cannot be exact and that a favorable business situation and rigid economy can change a prediction materially.

Foresee Huge Surplus
Assuming that on the basis of the figures already published there is an indicated surplus of about $70,000,000, this would not be enough to warrant a recommendation that the treasury estimates can be exceeded. For this reason some people have gone so far as to say there will be a $350,000,000 surplus, notwithstanding the cut that has been made by the new tax law in the expected receipts. Congress to some extent has it in its power to bring about a surplus of $350,000,000. Economy in expenditure will do the trick.

Same as In Business
If a business man wanted to bring about a surplus at the end of a year he not only would cut down his expenses of operation, but he would look to increased revenues by better business methods. The government and Congress can't improve economic conditions except by omitting to

Women Criminals Increasing, Says Report of State

SACRAMENTO, Nov. 29.—Crime among women apparently is on the increase, or more are being caught, and married women are running afoul of the law, according to statistics compiled by the state bureau of criminal identification. A total of 1,092 women and girls have been apprehended in charges carrying penitentiary sentences when convicted the past year, the bureau reported, and of this total approximately 65 per cent claimed to have been married. The number represented a 25 per cent increase over last year.

Difference of Opinion Heard In Republican Ranks At Capitol Today

By GEORGE R. HOLMES
For International News Service.
WASHINGTON, Nov. 29.—The action of the Republicans in reading out of the party Senator Robert M. La Follette and three of his supporters, Senators Brookhart, Frazier and Ladd, has stirred up a hornet's nest in the Republican organization that bids fair today to buzz for a long time.

Despite the comparative ease with which the ouster was put through the Republican conference, there is a marked division of opinion among Republicans as to the wisdom of the action taken. Criticism was rampant at the capitol today, although most of it was under cover.

Gives Two Viewpoints
Those like Senators Reed of Pennsylvania and Edge of New Jersey who pushed the expulsion proceedings hailed their victory as a victory for party solidarity and regularity. They predicted that the action taken would have a salutary effect in curbing the habit of straying away from the party reservations. Would-be bolters would think twice hereafter, they said before leaving the organization.

On the other hand, there is a considerable number of Republicans like Borah of Idaho, Cummins of Iowa and Norris and Howells of Nebraska, who deplore the action taken and believe that it will work for friction within the party rather than harmony. Norris said it was "a piece of vaudeville"; Borah said it was "a mistake"; and Cummins shook his head dolefully about it. Even Senator Curtis, the new leader, was privately against it.

MEXICO CITY OPENS ARMS TO CALLES

Capital Festooned In Color Awaiting Inauguration Of New President

By WILLIAM F. FLYTHE
For International News Service.
MEXICO CITY, Nov. 29.—The republic of Mexico hung up its last garland and tacked up its last bunting today for the fete tomorrow when it will reward with its hardest job and biggest honor a man who has won distinction by serving it with the text book no less than the bayonet.

At noon it will acclaim as its new president, Plutarco Elias Calles, farmer, schoolmaster, soldier and statesman who came from obscurity and educated himself in a manner much like that of the rail-splitter president of the sister republic north of the Rio Grande.

Calles will take the office being vacated by Alvaro Obregon with peaceful pomp seldom seen in Mexico since Aztec days. He will be inaugurated in a big stadium, before a crowd in which the citizens who elected him will predominate.

Background of Color
The background will be speckled with color, for Mexico is going to wear its chocolate soldier uniforms designed for occasions of state. There will be good cause for this display of epaulettes, gold braid, brass buttons, sashes, cockades, spurs and swords, for it will be only the second time in Mexican history that one legally elected president succeeded another legally elected president without a revolution, coups, assassination or bloodshed.

Standing at President-elect Calles' right will Plutarco Gomez, president of the Chamber of Deputies, administer the oath, while the retiring president, Obregon, will select cabinet.

The first official act of the new president doubtless will be a selection of a cabinet. It seems certain now that the "gubernacion," or chief of the cabinet, will be Gilberto Valenzuela, who was under secretary in this portfolio when Calles held it. All during this week diplomatic delegations and trade union delegates from many countries have been arriving for the ceremony. Among them at the stadium will be 300 American trades unionists led by Samuel Gompers.

Ponzi Is Detained For Deportation To Native Italy

BOSTON, Nov. 29.—Charles Ponzi, who mulcted millions by his fraudulent securities company, was arrested today by federal officers in his sumptuous home in Brooklyn. Thus a move began to deport the "financial wizard" whom a jury recently failed to convict on a larceny charge. Ponzi was taken to the immigration station at East Boston and placed in the detention pen. He will be arraigned before a regular board of special inquiry. The fact that Ponzi has a prison record in Canada where he operated before coming to the United States, might tend to have him deported by the British authorities to his native Italy.

FEE SWEETHEART RETURNS TO HOME

Miss Watkins Missing Since Yesterday Grilled In Banker's Death

SAN BERNARDINO, Nov. 29.—Mary Watkins, Alhambra, business girl, reported missing since yesterday, when she was sought by the authorities for further questioning in the mysterious murder of William R. Fee, Alhambra and San Gabriel banker, returned to her home today. She was to be questioned today by detectives, the district attorney said. Miss Watkins, on the verge of a collapse, had merely sought seclusion, her attorneys said, and was willing to submit to further questioning.

'Perfect Lover'
While the girl, who has admitted she was the "perfect love" sweetheart of the banker, was being examined the murder investigators prepared to make a test with two hairs from a man's head and a longer hair from a woman's head, found in a blood-stained handkerchief in a cabin in Lytle canyon, not far from the spot where Fee's body was discovered. Two hairs from the banker's head and a hair from the head of a woman friend of Fee's were to be compared with the hairs found in the handkerchief, detectives said. Another angle of the officers' investigation was the comparison of the slain banker's finger prints with those found in Miss Watkins' cabin near the scene of the crime. Funeral services for Fee were held today in Alhambra.

Navy Air Craft Prove San Diego Vulnerable

SAN DIEGO, Nov. 29.—Showing the apparent ease with which an enemy air fleet could conduct a night raid upon San Diego, any other coast or near inland city, three planes, dispatched from the navy aircraft carrier Langley, which arrived off Point Loma this morning, reached San Diego shortly after 7:30 o'clock last night. The planes, under the command of Lieutenant-Commander C. D. Mason, had been released at 3:30 p. m. while the Langley was 180 miles south of here and 100 miles from the Mexican coast. After coming inside the harbor the Langley will dispatch ten planes that will fly to the naval air station on North Island.

FIGHTING IN STREETS AT KHARTOUM

Two More British Officers Killed, Eight Wounded; Rush In Troops

BULLETIN
KHARTOUM, Egypt, Nov. 29.—British artillery today razed the house where the Egyptian army mutineers took refuge and killed fourteen Sudanese soldiers. The remainder surrendered.

CAIRO, Egypt, Nov. 29.—Two British officers were killed and eight soldiers wounded in the operations against the Sudanese mutineers, it was learned today. The situation is under control, according to advices from Khartoum.

Communication with Khartoum was on a halting and difficult schedule this morning through slashing of the telegraph wires, but latest reports stated that serious street fighting had been going on. The mutinous Sudan who killed three physicians and destroyed the Khartoum hospital yesterday are surrounded by British troops.

Warnings have been issued to the Sudanese troops that the penalty for mutiny will be death and that executions will be ordered of members of the organizations in which the mutiny originates. The Sudanese have but little ammunition and the British control the machine gun and munition stores, which are under heavy guard.

'MA' TO GET OATH IN SIMPLE FROCK

Texas Governor-elect Also Approves All-Night Inaugural Ball

By S. J. HUGHES
For International News Service.
FORT WORTH, Tex., Nov. 29.—There will be no Fifth avenue creations to dazzle the eye and rock the family exchequer when little "Ma" Ferguson steps up to take the gubernatorial oath next January—in fact, certain members of the family whispered today that "Ma" was seriously considering "cutting out her own frock."

And thus burst another bubble of hasty rumor, for the Old Dame had it a whole battalion of Fifth avenue creators were preparing to arise to the occasion. That more women will be interested in her dress than address, was the gentle pun pulled by Josephus Daniels on his recent visit with the Fergusons, and "Ma" put out the following today for female consumption:

"She will have two special dresses for the event, a simple, unpretentious outfit, possibly a suit effect, for the oath ceremony and an evening gown for the all-night dance, probably with a mild shot of the dazie."

'Ma' No Hypocrite
On the subject of dresses and dancing, the latter having worked up the Baptist state convention to the point of passing a resolution condemning the ball, "Ma" hastened to make known that the Methodist atmosphere of her schooling would not be transplanted to the gubernatorial ballroom—for the spectators—not to the capital—for the employees. "Personally, my Methodist training would never permit me to learn the waltz, foxtrot or the more recent jazz, and I don't intend to alter the channel of lifetime principles now, but that doesn't mean Old Man Gloom will chaperone the party. "Anybody who wants to dance certainly don't find any opposition from me. They can dance all night or stage a marathon, as long as it doesn't interfere with the legislature. This same attitude goes for the report that I would not permit any female state employees to smoke or bob their hair."

Carnegie Is Walloped By Notre Dame

BALTIMORE, Md., Nov. 29.—The army triumphed over the Navy here this afternoon in the annual classic between these two bitter rivals, when four field goals gave the Cadets a 12-to-0 score, one goal for each period.

President Coolidge and Mrs. Coolidge, following the custom, attended the battle, the president moving over from the Army to the Navy side of the field at the beginning of the second half. Approximately 65,000 witnessed the struggle.

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 29.—Knute Rockne's galloping "horsemen" again came to the rescue here this afternoon, after Notre Dame's second team failed to hold the Carnegie Tech eleven in the first half. Tech held the upper hand of a 13-13 tie until the third period, when Rockne's famous "Horsemen" trotted out to save the day. Immediately the game took on a vastly different aspect, Notre Dame having little difficulty in quickly running up the score to a total of forty points, while Tech registered a lone touchdown.

The game was played on a snow-covered field and both sides were guilty of much fumbling. The final score was 40 to 19.

Theatre King In Denial Of Movie Star's Charge

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 29.—Ora Carew, stage and film star, faced new troubles here today following filing of an affidavit signed by Alexander Pantages, theatre king, refuting documentary allegations made by the actress in her pending divorce suit against John Howard, son of the Haverhill, Mass., millionaire. Pantages denied in the affidavit that Miss Carew's engagement with his theatre would keep her away from Los Angeles for two years, as she had set forth in her plea that the divorce suit go to trial immediately. Howard, the actress' husband, was said by police to have struck Pantages here recently when he found the theatre magnate in his wife's company.

COPPER KING TOM LAWSON DERELICT INVALID

Man Who Set Out to Break Financial Center Now In Dire Want

(This is the first of a series of two dispatches by Mr. Small dealing with the present day condition and the spectacular career of the world famous Thomas W. Lawson of Boston—once the most powerful enemy of Wall street—now it's penniless victim.)

By ROBERT T. SMALL
Special Correspondent of The Glendale Evening News, Copyright, 1924.
BOSTON, Mass., Nov. 29.—While Wall street is reveling today in its greatest orgy of prosperity, Thomas W. Lawson, the man who once threatened to smash "the system" upon the rocks of pitiless publicity, the man who had the entire world tingling at his words and ready to lose its fortune at his command, lies this evening a financial derelict in a hospital at Bar Harbor, Maine.

There he is endeavoring to fight back to life from an operation which may or may not bring relief from an ailment, has borne down upon the one time "copper king" these many years now like an old man of the sea.

"Plucked Clean"
Lawson, a figure so picturesque that he threatened to eclipse Theodore Roosevelt in popular favor at the hey-day of the latter's term in the White House, has been plucked clean by Wall street. He fought, as he said, to keep others from being burned at the stake, but unable to practice what he preached, Lawson, of Boston, kept playing fast and loose with the bulls and the bears until they stripped him of virtually every shred.

Lawson, the king of the muckrakers when muckraking was an art, took over an entire magazine to tell his tale of "frenzied finance." This was back in 1904—twenty years ago. The presses could not print enough of the magazines. They were gobbled up from the Atlantic to the Pacific. Old ladies read them and shouted their condemnation of Wall street and its ways from the housetops. Preachers exhorted from the church steeples, little children swore like St. George to slay the dragon. Public opinion, inflamed to the burning point, spread overseas and Europe listened in for each succeeding chapter of the thrilling story of the man who was exposing Wall street from the "inside."

Dropped From Sight
Lawson went on an advertising spree such as the United States had never known before. When he found that Europe had its ears open, he extended his campaign to the newspapers over there. The man was almost devoured by the flames of his own righteous indignation. For the last six or seven years "Lawson of Boston" has dropped so completely from the limelight that the world which once, in Monte Cristo fashion, was almost

DAWES STAYS AWAY FROM CABINET

Vice-President Elect Tells Coolidge He Prefers To Remain Away

By DAVID LAWRENCE
Special Correspondent of The Glendale Evening News, Copyright, 1924.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29.—Charles G. Dawes, vice-president-elect, has stirred up the political curiosity at the national capital by his desire not to attend cabinet meetings as did his predecessor.

Mr. Dawes didn't wait for the election to come to the conclusion but told Mr. Coolidge of his preference last summer when the two nominees conferred at Plymouth. The presumption here is that Mr. Dawes mentioned the subject because he did not wish to see Mr. Coolidge make a special point of it in his campaign addresses as did Mr. Harding four years ago. The latter used it as an argument against one-man government and as an illustration of what he intended to do in the management of executive affairs.

Mr. Coolidge himself attended many cabinet meetings as vice-president and while he rarely took part in the discussions, feeling more or less like an "unofficial observer," nevertheless the fact that he did not press Mr. Dawes to change his viewpoint is taken to mean that upon reflection he is not sure that the attendance of the vice president at cabinet meetings is altogether advantageous.

Not Compulsory

There is no provision of law or the constitution which makes the attendance of a vice president at cabinet meetings necessary, in fact the president could call any person from private life into the meetings for consultation or advice. But the position of the vice president is not only as a prospective member of the executive branch of the government but an actual member of the legislative branch.

The believers in the exact separation of the executive and legislative parts of the government have not looked upon the attendance of the vice president at cabinet meetings in line with the ideas of the fathers of the constitution. The vice president not only presides over the debates of the senate and interprets the rules of that body, but he is permitted to cast a vote in case of a tie. It is to be seen if he were merely a discussor at the cabinet table would come up for a vote in the senate and that the deciding vote might be cast by the vice president.

Harding's Real Purpose

The real purpose of Mr. Harding was to familiarize his prospective successor with the details of the administration. Mr. Coolidge, however, as vice-president, was unable to attend all the meetings, in fact, he accepted several invitations to speak at functions which the president himself was unable to attend, thus necessitating frequent absences from the cabinet table with the knowledge and consent of Mr. Harding.

During the last campaign, an effort was made by the opponents of President Coolidge to fasten a certain amount of responsibility on his shoulders for the Tea Pot Dome scandal, it being argued that he must have learned at cabinet meetings of the merits of the question and that he should not have permitted any action to be taken without protest, especially because he had listened to the debate on the subject in the Senate. There are some inferences being drawn already in published reports that Mr. Dawes is reluctant to get himself in a similar position wherein he might be attacked for apparently acquiescing in the policies of the Coolidge administration when, in fact, his presence at the conference table would not permit his participation in the decisions made there.

Dawes Looks Ahead

It is being suggested that Mr. Dawes has his eyes on the 1928 nomination and wants to be free from involvement in any controversies into which the Coolidge administration may be plunged in the next four years.

No such reason, was, of course, advanced to President Coolidge who probably realizes that mere attendance at cabinet meetings doesn't always mean familiarity with the policies of the administration and that there is a possible conflict between the duties of a presiding officer of the senate and sitting in the cabinet. There is also a certain amount of embarrassment in attending a cabinet meeting if one is of the temperament of Charles G. Dawes. Mr. Coolidge is a quiet man and by habit reticent. Mr. Dawes is of the explosive kind. He couldn't listen to a discussion such as must take place every now and then in the cabinet about subjects with which he is especially familiar without straining at the leash to say something. Mr. Dawes has business interests, too, and so his family which would not have to be severed if he were merely presiding officer of the senate, but there might be complications for him if he had to be an unofficial member of the cabinet. All in all, it may be taken for granted that President Coolidge will not urge Mr. Dawes to come to the cabinet table and that the precedent started four years ago will be abandoned.

PRE-NATAL PACTS JOLTED BY JUDGE

Sacramento Prosecutor to Ask Agreements Banned Ignoring Children

SACRAMENTO, Nov. 29.—Seeking to ban pre-natal agreements between husband and wife which absolve the former from responsibility of supporting their minor children, District Attorney J. J. Henderson today referred the so-called "lazy father decision" of the third district court of appeals to Attorney-General Webb with a request for a rehearing.

In his request for a rehearing District Attorney Henderson cited section 270 of the penal code which he claims prohibits agreements relieving the father of responsibility in the following language:

"This statute shall not be construed so as to relieve such father from the criminal liability defined herein for such omission merely because the mother of such child or any other person or organization voluntarily or involuntarily furnishes such necessary food, clothing, shelter or medical attendance for such child or undertakes to do so."

The appellate court ruled that abandonment after pre-natal agreement between husband and wife was not "wilful and without lawful excuse" as stipulated in the law.

GLENDALE PLACED ON RAILROAD MAP

Union Pacific Puts City On 'Optional' Route For Travelers

Designation of Glendale as an optional route terminal by the Union Pacific railway was announced this morning by C. A. Redmond, city passenger agent of the road here. This means that passengers coming to or leaving Glendale will be furnished transportation to or from Los Angeles Union Pacific depot to Glendale, along with their regular tickets and without additional charge. These added accommodations will greatly facilitate the dispatch of baggage to Glendale, this being the main point of objection to the system in vogue to date.

The designation of Glendale as an optional terminal makes this city and Pasadena the only two in Southern California with such privileges, Mr. Redmond added. The concession was obtained through the efforts of Dr. Henry R. Harrower, Secretary Howard I. Wood of the Chamber of Commerce and Mr. Redmond.

Optional Privilege
The fact that in many cases direct passage to Glendale could not be obtained at eastern ticket offices under the old system of issuing "extension" vouchers and that even when such vouchers were issued and extra charge was made was first brought to the attention of the Chamber of Commerce by Dr. Harrower, who explained he was unable to get direct passage upon his return from a recent European trip.

The chamber communicated with Mr. Redmond, who in turn took the matter up with General Manager W. M. Jeffers of the Union Pacific at Omaha, requesting that Glendale be designated an "optional route" in the future. Word that the request was granted reached the Glendale Union Pacific office today.

The new tickets will give any passenger the optional right to stop off at Los Angeles or come on to Glendale over the Glendale-Montrose electric line. It places this city on a par with Los Angeles, Long Beach, Pasadena, San Diego and Santa Barbara, Mr. Redmond explained.

PHANTOM OF WALL STREET, DERELICT

Man Who Set Out to Break Financial World Dying In Dire Want

his, had begun to think of him as dead. Lawson had been living quietly with his sister at her home near Bar Harbor. It is said that in the days of his rolling wealth he settled an annuity upon her. If the story be true, it was the only really wise investment the broker ever made.

All of his property is gone; his wife, whom he showered with riches, is dead; his family scattered. One of his sons is said to be making his home in a $35 a month tenement in this city. Lawson's spectacular fight against Wall Street not only brought him fame but untold riches. Having gained the confidence of the people of the entire country, Lawson started a little Wall Street of his own. He began to be an "underwriter."

He organized one copper company after another. The people poured millions into his lap. They mortgaged their homes, sold their cattle. Lawson, the wizard of finance, was to lead them at once to the promised land.

A Queer Paradox
In after years when they had lost their all, some of his closest friends appealed to him for help. Lawson laughed at them. He had not asked them to give him their money. They had trusted him. Their promotions and speculations had failed—what of it? The man always had been a queer paradox. Handing out generosity with one hand, he had struck out ruthlessly with the other, letting the victims fall where they might. Lawson still had millions when many of his followers were on their way over the hill to the poor house. But they were not long ahead of him. He is of their number now. The ticker has taken its toll.

Bulls and bears, once harried almost to distraction, laid plans for the Boston financier. Into some of these he walked humming like a fly going to visit the spider. And Lawson of Boston had about the same chance of escape.

Stripped of Everything
He has been stripped of "dreamworld," the home he built from his dreams of childhood. His dead wife's jewels are gone. The steam yachts, the blooded cattle, the fatted pigs, the "dreamworld terriers," the "Lawson pink"—nothing left, but memories of what he had and what he had lost. He is wracked with pain in his hospital bed.

Mingled with the memories, however, there is the old fighting desire to get back in the game. Lawson's friends say that if he had only a few thousand dollars he might have "cleaned up" in the recent flush market. But the market goes on, paying no heed to what might have been. In Wall Street, too, Lawson of Boston is but a memory—even less than that—just a smile.

Postal Ace, Politician Sentenced In Mail Job

CHICAGO, Nov. 29.—William J. Fahy, former ace of the postal inspectors in charge and James Murray, west side politician, and confessed beer runner, must serve twenty-five years each in the federal penitentiary at Atlanta, Ga., for their part in the $2,000,000 Roundout mail robbery. Sentence was passed upon them today by Federal Judge Adam C. Cliff. Fahy and Murray were sentenced upon eleven counts and had not the court specified that the sentences were to run concurrently the total for each would have been 17 years.

Brent Glasscock, leader of the actual bandits and his aides—Herbert Holliday, Jesse, Joe, Willie Newton—all of whom confessed and pleaded guilty, will be sentenced Monday.

L. A. Motorist Freed In Death of Mexican Boy
SAN DIEGO, Nov. 29.—John E. Elmore, Los Angeles, was freed today of a charge of manslaughter, a jury in superior court late last night having returned a verdict of acquittal. Elmore was tried jointly with J. R. Allen, also of Los Angeles, for the death of a young Mexican boy who was run down by an automobile in which Elmore and Allen were riding near Oceanside several weeks ago.

In returning its verdict of acquittal for Elmore, the jury announced no decision had been reached in the case of the Allen and further deliberation of his case was resumed today.

Noted Composer's Death Recalls Close Friend In Glendale

BRUSSELS, Nov. 29.—Giacomo Puccini, noted composer, known wherever opera is sung, died today from a throat affection which brought him here for treatment from his home in Milan, Italy. He was 65 years old. Some of his most noted operas were "La Boheme," "La Tosca" and "Madame Butterfly."

There is one person, at least, in Glendale who will learn of Puccini's death with a little bit more concern than the millions who have been thrilled by such compositions of this great composer as "Madame Butterfly." That person is Elaine Tomaso, living at 627 East Windsor road. Miss Tomaso's father, Salvatore, who died last year, was an intimate friend of Puccini, having met the great composer in Italy. Mr. Tomaso was an accomplished musician.

Fighting Continues In Streets of Khartoum

attorney was killed during yesterday's attack. Though the meager advices do not state, it is believed probable that martial law has been declared in Khartoum. River boat entering the Sudan have cancelled their schedules and the only consistent communication has been via wireless.

The British are rushing reinforcements from here overland into the Sudan, it being the opinion of military authorities that it will require a considerable force to restore quiet. It is feared dissatisfaction has spread to include most of the Sudan, though the only violence reported has been in Khartoum.

Foreign Office Admits Situation Is Serious

LONDON, Nov. 29.—"Serious, but not critical." This was the foreign office characterization of the situation in the Sudan today in the first comprehensive report from official sources.

Martial law has been effective in the Sudan since 1899, the foreign office said, so its application at this time does not indicate an extreme outbreak.

The mutiny occurred November 27, when the rebellious soldiers, with their machine guns, marched on Gordon college. Two platoons of British stopped them.

Arrests Ordered
The British commander addressed the mutineers and asked them to disperse. Acting Sirdar Huddleston also appeared and ordered the mutineers to disperse. When they refused to recognize his authority, he gave orders that the Sudanese be rounded up.

The number of casualties in the ensuing fighting was not fixed, the foreign office stated. The situation was under control today, the statement added.

Broker's Suicide Laid To Worry In Business

SAN JOSE, Cal., Nov. 29.—Worry over business affairs was believed by friends today to have been the cause of the suicide of Walter Dupart Sheldon, wealthy retired grain broker, who sent a bullet through his brain at his country home at Los Gatos. Mrs. Sheldon fled from the house when he entered brandishing a revolver, they told the coroner, and shortly afterward heard a shot. Sheldon's body was found in the house with the revolver by his side.

BUSINESS ON UPWARD TREND

12th District Federal Reserve Agent Reports on All Western Activity

By JOHN PERRIN
(Chairman of the Board and Federal Reserve Agent, Twelfth District)
SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 29.—The upward trend of business activity, checked temporarily during September, was resumed in October. The improvement was moderate and minor movements contrary to the general trend were present, but the total volume of business transacted in the district was noticeably larger than in the previous month. This appraisal of the situation is borne out by figures of debits to individual accounts (bank debits) at 20 principal clearing house centers, an excellent measure of general business conditions. The total of reported bank debits was 10.5 per cent larger in October, 1924, than in September, 1924, and but 1.9 per cent smaller than in October, 1923, when greater than normal business activity was reported. The October, 1924, figures, corrected for seasonal variation and year to year growth, approximated an estimated normal for the month and year.

Markets Are Steady
Steady marketing of the district's crops, generally at prices above those paid in recent previous years, has contributed greatly to the improvement in the business situation. The rise in prices of farm products during the period of heavy sales following the harvest did much to offset the effect of smaller than average crops and encouraged prompt sale of the yields which were secured.

Productive activity in the principal industries of the district was well maintained during October, although seasonal curtailment in some lines caused a moderate decrease in the volume of employment. The amount of building construction now under way is large, and so also is the amount of building in prospect as shown by the number and value of building permits issued in 20 principal cities during October. The totals for the month, excluding the figures for Los Angeles where a large decline occurred, were slightly above the record figures of October a year ago. The value of building permits issued in these cities during the first ten months of 1924 has been but 5.9 per cent less than the value of permits issued in the corresponding period of 1923, and this despite the fact that the cost of building was higher during the earlier year.

Lumbering Increases
Lumber mills of the district increased their output during October but sales were smaller than in the previous month, and considerably less than production. While distributors and consumers of lumber have shown little tendency to anticipate future needs, many mills are reported to have limited sale commitments in expectation of a rise in prices. The mines of the district, particularly those producing silver and lead, were active and production of all of the principal non-ferrous metals continued at the high levels of recent months. The flour milling industry operated at reduced capacity during the month, output of 16 reporting mills being less than the five-year average for October and well below the figure for a year ago. The rapid advance of wheat prices during recent weeks and persistent sluggishness in the market for flour have been

STUDENT SAVINGS SEEN IN REPORT

Banker R. F. Kitterman of Glendale Security Gives Interesting Facts

R. F. Kitterman, vice-president, Glendale Security bank, is in receipt of a report made by the savings bank division of the American Bankers' association in regard to school savings bank balances. For the year ending June 30, 1924, there was an increase from $11,807,000 to $20,435,000. In the same period, the number of pupils taking part in school savings grew from 1,967,851 to 2,236,326, while collections grew from $10,632,000 to $14,991,500. The number of schools increased from 6868 to 9080 and the number of reporting school savings systems from 494 to 683.

"The reason for the persistence and vitality of the thrift idea as developed in school savings systems is manifested in two ways: First in the growth of the honor roll which during the past year has grown from less than 30 per cent of the entire number of systems to above 33 per cent; second, the growth and increased efficiency of the systems established prior to this year," the report declares.

Show Steady Increase
"Comparisons based on the reports of a group of about 400 districts from which data were available both as of June 30, 1923, and June 30, 1924, show that, although the pupil enrollment in these districts increased but 4 per cent, the pupil participation increased 8 per cent, the collections 23 per cent and the total bank balances increased 44 per cent."

"Second only in importance to pupil participation in school savings is frequency and regularity of participation. Thrift is not instinctive, but is subject to cultivation. Conscious participation in the activities of school savings banking at frequent intervals is essential if the lessons of school savings are to be factors in a thrifty adult life. The fundamental purpose of school savings aims not so much at the saving of a sum of money by the pupils as it does at the acquisition by them of the habits of saving and of reflection before the money acquired is spent."

CHURCH WORK IN EDUCATION TOLD

Committee Reports Given by Meeting of Missionary Society Branch

The meeting of the men's division of the Home and Foreign Missionary society of the Central Christian church was held at the home of Mrs. Eva M. Hutton, 326 East Colorado street, last night. Routine business was transacted at a short business session and reports from committees heard.

Miss Alice Roe and her sister, Mrs. J. H. Wright, played a piano duet, "Military March" (Carl Bohm). Mrs. Wright read a poem, "The Song of Elder Jones" (Douglas Malloch). C. A. Littleton led the devotional service. Frank Kaiser gave a talk on the Christian mission schools in the United States. C. A. Parker told of educational work in general.

Moonlight Schools
The moonlight schools in eastern Kentucky which are under the auspices of the Christian churches were described by Mrs. Eva M. Hutton. The schools were founded in 1911 by Mrs. Carnegie Wilson Stewart, who held school at night for the mountain people, who came from miles around. Mrs. Hutton said. In 1911 an old woman 86 years old proved to be the winner of the prize for learning more rapidly than the others, and in 1912 a man 87 years old won, she said.

Miss Lula Garton, secretary of the missionary society work of Southern California, gave a report of the national convention held in Cleveland, Rev. C. A. Cole, chairman of educational work of the state, told of the Christian church schools in general, stating that people should acquaint themselves with the activities of the schools and other work of the church.

Refreshments of pumpkin pie, doughnuts and coffee were served at the close of the meeting. The men's division will have charge of the regular missionary society meeting to be held January 7, 1925, at the church.

Union Pacific to Aid In Advertising City

Five thousand pamphlets advertising Glendale will be given away to prospective tourists and travelers by Union Pacific ticket agents throughout the larger cities of the east. A request for a first shipment of the booklets put out by the Glendale Chamber of Commerce was received today from General Passenger Agent Peck of the Union Pacific road.

The booklets will be distributed to eastern agencies of the road at Chicago, Minneapolis, and a number of other cities. Paul Stillman, chairman of the advertising committee of the Chamber of Commerce, announced that the request of the railroad for Glendale booster literature would be granted.

Loaded Oil Truck Flames Extinguished

A loaded oil truck caught fire on Verdugo road, just north of the junction with Glendale avenue, at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon, and but for the prompt arrival of apparatus from Station No. 1 of the Glendale fire department, the damage might have been great. The blaze, which originated in the muffler, was extinguished with chemicals. Chief A. H. Lankford of the department, was in charge. The loss was slight, he reports.

More than 10,000 Germans came to the United States in October, 1923.

HOLLYWOOD HEAVES SIGH When Charlie Brings Lita AS BRIDE AND NOT POLA

By REX LAMPMAN
Special Service Staff Correspondent, The Glendale Evening News
Copyright 1924, by The Consolidated Press

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 29.—Hollywood is frankly glad it's all over. Hollywood loves Charles Spencer Chaplin, and wishes him and his bride all happiness, but Hollywood is relieved, as it has not been since Pola Negri sent back Charlie's ring. Nobody saw a wraith of a chance for wedded felicity in that prospective union, and for all Hollywood's ample tolerance, Pola was not really the woman Hollywood would have picked for its grotesque hero.

But Lita Grey—at least she's young and she learned to act in Hollywood, and she is not a sophisticated veteran of the game of hearts. The Studio Mothers' association, which exists in fact, even if it does not hire a hall and have regular meetings, gives its maternal O. K. to Lita Grey as the wife of Charlie Chaplin.

Somebody's daughter had to have him, didn't she? That is, unless some unchaperoned free lance, like Pola, some vampire who carries her professional wiles out of the studio to employ ad lib on desirable male stars, should make him captive of her bob and lip stick. As it is—well, it's over. Charlie is out of the picture and members of the Studio Mothers' association may now renew their strategy to conform to new conditions on the field of battle.

Pola Says Nothing
Among a number of statements concerning the happy event that have not been given to the people is one from Pola Negri. She is too busy or something to comment. Madam, says Pola's maid, is seeing no one. Indeed, Hollywood has a slight peeve against Pola, considering her in part to blame for the surreptitious manner of the Chaplin-Grey nuptials.

Why, asks Hollywood, with a dominant dowager note in the voice, was it necessary for Charlie Chaplin to go to Mexico to be married?

He was free, and Miss Grey was free—no interloper decrees hanging over their heads—the usual reason for American weddings in Mexico.

Why couldn't the happy event have been staged in Hollywood, with all Hollywood's naive pomp and circumstance, cameras clicking, closeups of bride, bridegroom, press agents beaming from the side lines, city officials and all? Yes, why? Hollywood feels cheated.

Why Pola Is Blamed
And here's where Pola is to blame. A year ago when she and Charlie Spencer Chaplin were betraying pronounced turtle-dove symptoms up at Del Monte at an inn called Samarkand, which the reporters discovered from its stationery, means "heart's desire."

Such an epochal deluge of publicity descended upon the weak end affair that they were literally compelled blushing to admit their fond intentions. Sure, they said, we're engaged, if you insist.

Subsequent events tended to prove that the lotus-blossom of Charlie's and Pola's love might, indeed, have been blighted by premature forcing of its bud by callous scribes at Samarkand. And if they had been more tactful, Pola and Charlie, each and both, in just happening to be at Del Monte at the same time—that is, if they had kept out of the papers, things might have gone differently with their romance.

There, that's why Pola is to take the blame for Hollywood's not having been let in on Charlie's great secret of his approaching marriage to Lita Grey. Not that anybody wanted him to marry Pola, says Hollywood, but the Pola publicity is what made Charlie gunshy, got him engaged that time before he intended, perhaps, and just spoiled everything.

All Over Now
He had to go to Mexico, he and Lita, to make sure they got married at all. Who knows what love affair, however, rosy, will withstand the merciless white light that beats upon the throne of the king of comedy.

In the debacle of Charlie's well laid plans for secrecy, due to the Mexican law's insistence upon the publication of the banns, or thirty days' notice of intent to marry, Hollywood sees clearly another instance of the hard luck that pursues its jongleur-hero from the screen to the street and through all the affairs of his life except those relating to finance.

King of comedy, yes, but prince of futility, too. He can't even get married without everything going against the script of his most carefully prepared scenario.

Well, anyway, it's all over now—long sigh—and Hollywood is old-fashioned and bromidic enough to hope that if Charlie and Lita ever have any troubles they will all be little ones.

Glendale Star

Esther Ralston, former student at Glendale High school has been cast for the role of the "Mother" in the screen version of Sir James M. Barrie's "Peter Pan," now nearing completion in Hollywood.

Esther Ralston, former Glendale girl, and about three years ago student at Glendale High school, is one of the lucky members of the "make-believe" family to be cast for the Sir James M. Barrie fantasy, "Peter Pan," now nearing completion for screen presentation under the direction of Herbert Brenon at Famous Players-Lasky Hollywood studio. Miss Ralston has graduated from the amateur ranks of screen artistry. Much of her talent was inherited, as her parents were members of the then popular theatrical troupe known as "The Ralston Family." One of her first important roles before the camera was as the sweetheart of Huckleberry Finn in the screen version of this Mark Twain story. She also was seen in the ingenue role in the screen version of Dickens' "Oliver Twist."

Esther was born in Bar Harbor, Me., and was educated in Washington, D. C., which city also contributed Billie Burke to the theatrical fold.

Miss Ralston has the role of the "Mother" in "Peter Pan," "mothering" petite Betty Bronson, the "unknown" personality selected by Sir James M. Barrie to play the title role. Esther is what the Hollywood colony likes to call an "old-fashioned" girl with golden hair. No—it isn't bobbed.

CROSS WORDS MAY RUIN THEATER

Chorus Disrupted And Show Delayed By Puzzles On Checkerboard

By EDNA MARSHALL
Special Correspondent of The Glendale Evening News, Copyright, 1924
NEW YORK, Nov. 29.—Cross words on the chorine's dressing table, cross words in the bosoms of the stars, cross words tucked between pages of the theatre programs to be worked upon between acts and helped by words that chance in actors' speeches—these are some of the things theatrical managers are encountering when they try to run a show on Broadway.

Cross words and ruin—synonymous, according to the bosses. Since the little checkerboards whose every square has a "letter," meaning all its own, entered the theatre have been played. Four big theatrical managers waited a chorus about it.

The cross word puzzle has invaded the footlighted stage—fore and aft—with a vengeance. In the past three weeks "hey moaned not one performance has been called without a battle being previously waged to get the gents and ladies of the ensemble out on time. There has been a word escaping them that just had to be caught before the audiences could be faced.

Feverish Unrest
On the other hand, people don't like the theatre anymore, they say. They can't keep up an interest in the various acts and members. There is just the possibility chance that some actor will let fall the hidden word that missed them when they worked the puzzle back at home to whet the interest in the passing entertainment.

There is a certain, a most feverish unrest among the audiences until the intermission breaks and furnishes an opportunity to furrow up the brow and look at the puzzle in the electric lights. A tour of theaters revealed numerous groups gathered in the aisles during the act around tiny checkered pieces of paper.

Although the theatrical bosses seem to be wearing a frown over this strange development, theatre-going is still the thing to do. People don't mind waiting for tardy chorus girls and actors when they have cross word puzzles tucked into their pockets to while away the time.

What Can You Do?
But the managers, the producers, the stagehands! It causes them to gnash their teeth. "What can you do?" implored Jack who flashes the signals for the appearance of the actors in one of the lading musical comedies playing.

A HAPPY HOME—

Is the noblest work of man.
Cannot be built without a willingness to overlook faults.
Is never founded upon whim, caprice or flirtations.
Is one in which parents rule by the authority of love.
Is always worth more than a bigger business.
Is a work of art—the art of living together.
Doesn't depend upon the house or furnishings.

SECURING FACTORIES

Our best friends are those who tell us of our faults, it is said. Therefore, A. G. Arnoll, manager of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce, and a resident of Glendale, will qualify as a good friend of Glendale, for, in an address at the Chamber of Commerce Forum dinner Monday evening, he bestowed upon us constructive criticism which, if heeded, will prove helpful. He tells us that we are asking for industries without being prepared to take care of them. There seems not to be anyone in Glendale able to give the information which manufacturers require when locating a plant, and naturally they turn to other communities who can give this assistance. And, so, while we are sleeping, many high class industries slip from our fingers and locate elsewhere. We want only clean factories, but we have no assurance that the other kind will not come. In order to keep them out we should fill up our industrial sites with the class we desire.

Mr. Arnoll made it clear also that we are expending needless effort and expense in looking to the east for industries. Los Angeles is as far as we need to go. The Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce is working, not only for that city, but for the entire south, and is placing industries where conditions seem best for them. When it comes to advising these men as to desirable locations, Mr. Arnoll is not in the least prejudiced against the city where he makes his home, but that city must have someone who can work with these manufacturers in getting necessary information.

The problem of securing industries should be a problem no longer in view of Mr. Arnoll's plain statement of facts, and his assurance that there are many desirable factories to be secured without undue expense and effort expended among eastern concerns. Glendale has a reputation to sustain, and we cannot afford to lag behind smaller and less favored communities in this matter, which means so much to us in increased activity in all kinds of business as well as growth in population.

There should be a committee appointed, the members of which will prepare themselves to give inquirers information, such as power rates and other details they must know before selecting a location. This committee should work with the manufacturer and give him every assistance possible until he is located. And, the members of the committee should be men of vision like Mr. Arnoll, who can see a long line of desirable industries lining the San Fernando road from the city limits of Los Angeles to Burbank.

CHANGING IDEALS

There is such a tendency today to tear down old ideals and conventions, to ridicule the things we formerly held sacred, that many people find themselves bewildered and confused. Many lives, firmly charted in youth, find that their moral and spiritual trails have become grass-grown and they know not which way to go. It seems foolish in the light of what they hear and read, to continue in the dim course they had mapped out.

An old fashioned lecturer recently referred to motherhood as glorious, and a woman syndicate writer takes considerable space in papers all over the country to ridicule his "prating" and to assure us that motherhood is not glorious, but a "divine annoyance." She says that bringing up a child is the world's most difficult job, and no one will disagree with her on that statement. But, isn't there a joy in doing any work well, and what could be more glorious than performing to the best of one's ability the hardest work in the world?

Speaking of motherhood, there are many who think that the old fashioned type of mother, who made sacrifices for her children, is not worthy of our reverence, that a woman should lead her own life, and follow her own inclinations, irrespective of her family's needs and wishes. And yet, there are people who look back to mothers who had no personal ambitions and no desires beyond their own homes and the welfare of their families, and splendid and noble are the only words that can apply to them. Hard work and sacrifice can be glorious, idleness and ease rarely are. And, the mother today who stays young with her children and interests herself in their pleasures and their disappointments, and the one who is earning a living for them, is likewise fulfilling a glorious destiny.

We have lost our bearing to a certain extent, in the matter of patriotism and religion, also. There are those today who are trying to teach us that no country is worth fighting for, that our homes are not worth protecting. And, there is a large class who feel that they have outgrown the old fashioned religion. What is responsible for this radical change in our ideals?

ERRORS VIA PHONE

The telephone has come into such general use; we have come to depend so completely upon this mode of communication socially as well as in business, and though instrument and service may be of the best, it is not always possible to hear as clearly over the telephone as it is when talking face to face, and, therefore, ludicrous, and sometimes costly errors are likely to result when the greatest care is not used.

A woman quite widely known among her friends as a gossip, called a number the other day and asked, "Is this Mrs. Moore?" It happened to be Mrs. Poore, but she misunderstood the name and said, "Yes." The woman speaking was a friend of both Mrs. Moore and Mrs. Poore, so Mrs. Poore did not question that she was the one wanted until the woman speaking began to relate some gossip about members of Mrs. Poore's family. Then the mistake was discovered, much to the discomfort of both. This incident really happened, though the names given are fictitious.

It is so easy to misunderstand names over the phone, and in cases where it is necessary that they be correct, no effort made to have them thoroughly understood is wasted.

Quite recently a Glendale minister's notes of a sermon were being given over the telephone. The words "the Master's needs," were understood and reported as "the pastor's needs." A ludicrous error, but one that could easily be made with two words like these that sound alike over the phone.

When devices have been perfected to enable us to see those to whom we are speaking over the telephone and watch their lip movements, these errors will not be so frequent. Until then it behooves those at both ends of the line to use great care in transmitting telephone messages when accuracy is necessary.

The industrious rest; the idle rust.

BUT THERE'S A STRING ATTACHED TO IT—

Beachmarks and Progress

By DR. FRANK CRANE

On the sands of the shore each wave leaves a mark at its highest point, an irregular, fine line of residue and sand.

This stays until a larger and more powerful wave extends beyond and obliterates the old mark and makes a new one.

So with knowledge. Every advance in information not only makes a new record for the human mind, but it renders the old one useless. When Galileo made his discovery the ancient theories were relegated to the shelf. The trouble with evolution is that it has not only pushed human knowledge to a further point, but it has relegated much of the knowledge that we had before to the scrap heap.

There can be no advance toward the future without stepping upon the past and the things that are discovered anew often are in conflict with and override old ideas.

Across the street from me they are tearing down an old building. Workmen are busy taking the bricks apart and knocking off the mortar and removing the old planks. They were once just as busy in hauling the bricks and mortar and planks and in putting them in place. They are going to put up a new building, I suppose, of a superior sort. But the new building cannot be put up without removing the old.

New wine must be put into new bottles. This involves the throwing away of the old ones. But there are many people who are attached to the old theories concerning them. And there is just as strong an instinct in humanity to stand still as there is to go on.

There is a definite advancement in science which goes on from fact to fact. Every step that we make is but a point in our journey forward. Mr. Wells says that the one unpardonable sin is the refusal to go on. Certain it is that we cannot stand still. In science, in religion and in politics, we must be ready to take our foot in our hand and progress. Without progress there is no safety. We are continually making arrangements to stand still and continually harking back to the old things, but are continually pushed forward by the urge of the new.

Horoscope

Many friendly stars rule today, according to astrology. Saturn, Uranus and Mars are all in benefic aspect.

It is a most fortunate rule for farmers and for all who deal in agricultural products.

All who derive their livings from the earth directly should benefit and apparently there is to be much interest in mining.

Real estate continues subject to a rule making for prolonged prosperity and profit.

Builders, contractors and manufacturers have the prognostication of far-reaching activities and it looks as if many would prosper from foreign contracts.

Mexico comes under a direction of the stars that is very favorable and its people should benefit greatly.

Foreign influx will be great and race antagonisms are to develop, but not for a number of years, the seers foretell.

The lunation of this month is not altogether encouraging for it is read as denoting much illness and an unusual mortality.

All the signs are read as presaging an unusually heavy fall of moisture in all parts of the country. Heavy snows may be expected in the east and flooding rains in the west.

In December sudden fluctuations of the money market may be expected, astrologers forecast. Serious political troubles in England that will be of deep concern in this country are prophesied.

Persons whose birthdate it is have the best augury for the coming year. Travel, change and unpleasant surprises apparently are waiting.

Children born on this day will be quick, persevering and clever. These subjects of Sagittarius usually are able to win success while they are also unselfish to a marked degree.

STOPPING BY WOODS ON A SNOWY EVENING

Whose woods these are I think I know.

His house is in the village though; He will not see me stopping here To watch his woods fill up with snow.

The little horse must think it queer To stop without a farmhouse near, Between the woods and frozen lake,

The darkest evening of the year He gives his harness bells a shake To ask if there is some mistake. The only other sound's the sweep Of easy wind and downy flake.

The woods are lovely, dark and deep, But I have promises to keep, And miles to go before I sleep, And miles to go before I sleep.

Who's Who

Whether or not the stepping out of Frederick Gillett as speaker of the House next March will precipitate a bitter fight, or the Republicans will line up solidly behind Congressman Martin B. Madden of Illinois, or Nick Longworth of Ohio, or a last minute choice is a question interesting Washington political circles.

At this writing Madden seems to be favored for the post. Madden is an unusual figure in national politics. Once a poor boy in Chicago and handicapped with a crippled leg, he not only has made his way to leadership in the House, but also to a fortune that is estimated at many millions of dollars. He is much loved in his home district in Chicago, where he is the sponsor for a great number of charities. He has always been well liked in the House for his fairness and tolerance.

Madden is now chairman of the powerful appropriations committee, and in this position has fought hard to uphold the Coolidge economy program. He on all occasions has worked to prevent increases in the budget and has staved off many attempted raids on the treasury by members of the House.

Born in Darlington, England, March 20, 1855, Madden was obliged at an early age to face hardships. At 10 he left school and began work in the stone quarries, continuing his education at night school and business college.

He was at one time president of the Quarry Owners' Association of U. S., and of the Illinois Manufacturers' association and vice-president of the Builders' and Traders' Exchange of Chicago.

It was in 1890 that Madden launched into politics, as chairman of the Republican City commission of Chicago.

The Best of Advice

By CLARK KINNARD

THE ETERNAL QUESTION

What lies beyond the grave? It is a question that has troubled men from the beginning.

Men like to believe in immortality. There is something beyond the grave, they reason; death does not put an end to everything. Addison's lines sum up this feeling:

It must be so—Plato, thou reasonest well!—Else whence this pleasing hope, this fond desire, This longing after immortality?

Or whence this secret dread, and inward horror, Of falling into naught? Why shrinks the soul At destruction?

'Tis the divinity that stirs within us; 'Tis heaven itself, that points out an hereafter, And intimates eternity to man.

John Burroughs, facing the mystery, was certain there was nothing to light up the grave for him.

"It is the primal, unending darkness," he decided. "The faith of all the saints and martyrs does not help me."

From our youth up our associations with the dead and with the grave are oppressive. Our natural animal instincts get the better of us. Death seems the great catastrophe. As Burroughs put it:

"The silver cord is loosened and the golden bowl is broken. The physical aspects of death are unlovely and repellent. And the spiritual aspects—only the elect can see them. Our physical scenes are so dominant, the visible world is so overpowering, that all else becomes as dreams and shadows."

The grave is not dark or cold to the dead, but only to the living, it seemed to Burroughs.

"The light of the eye, the warmth of the body, still exist undiminished in the universe, but in other relations, under other forms."

"Shall the flower complain because it fades and falls? It has to fall before the fruit can appear."

But what is the fruit of the flower of life? Surely not the grave, as the loose thinking of some seem to imply. The only fruit I can see is in fairer flowers, or a higher type of mind and life that follows in this world, and to which our lives may contribute.

The flower of life has improved through the ages—the geologic ages; from the flower of the brute, it has become the flower of the man. You and I perish, but something goes out, or may go out, from us that will help forward a higher type of mankind.

To what end? Who knows? We cannot cross-question the Infinite.

"Something has eventuated in man, and something has profited by his ameliorations. We must regard him as a legitimate product, and we must look upon death as a legitimate part of the great cycle and evil only from our temporary and personal point of view, but good from the view of the whole."

INTELLIGENT SELLING IN REALTY

American Institute Teaches How To Solve Human Equation In Deal

How intelligent salesmanship goes to work to solve the human equation of husband and wife plus or minus children, plus or minus an all-important X representing the family's complex tastes, hopes, ambitions, desires, needs and financial ability, when the answer is the purchase of a home is put down in pamphlet form in a current publication of the American Real Estate Institute, Chicago, sent out to its members as the fifth of its series of studies in real estate practice.

The institute, which has recently been established by the National Association of Real Estate Boards as a separate branch of the association, to formulate and conduct a national standardized home study course in real estate, has already issued lessons covering the work and equipment of a real estate dealer, best methods of listing property for sale, and practical methods of finding the prospect for real estate purchase, including a special discussion of how to use advertising in finding prospective purchasers of real estate.

Here are some of the kinks of human nature in house hunting that the competent real estate man has found must be taken account of, if the family is to be fitted, like a plant coming out of a pot, into a place where it can take new root and be happy.

Needs And Wants
There is likely to be something of a gap between what a family needs and what it wants. It's the useful broker who separates the wheat that will satisfy real needs from the chaff of pleasant dreams beyond the present ability of the family to finance.

Religious affiliations as well as general social affiliations are a big factor to be considered in making happy family transplantings.

It takes a big element of the unknown out of the home equation when the family has children. "A place to bring up a family" is a phrase with a universal meaning.

There's much to be sold with a house beside its roofline and doorstep. The thing that makes

Cities To Decide Date For Special Sewer Bond Vote

One of the most important movements in sanitation inaugurated in Los Angeles county is the formation of the five sewerage disposal districts, embracing all the territory in the county outside the city of Los Angeles. On December 3, a joint meeting of all municipal interests will decide on a date for a $14,000,000 bond election to care for this work.

A permanent solution of sewerage disposal problems of communities outside of Los Angeles is sought in this county wide movement by the construction of a joint outfall to the ocean at White's Point, one mile west of Point Pirmin.

REALTORS' CHIEF SEES PROSPERITY

President White of State Association Visiting California Cities

SANTA ANA, Nov. 29.—Returning from a tour of northern real estate boards President Everett A. White reports he found business conditions throughout the central and northern districts to be very good, and improving all along the line.

"Some of the cities in California are having their best real estate business, and everywhere I go I have found a splendid optimism for 1925," President White declared in an interview today.

"Especially do I note an improved demand for farm lands where the next great movement in real estate seems destined to occur. I am urging the diversification of crops for California. Diversifying of farm products will add hundreds of millions of dollars to our state output and eventually place California in the top notch."

Speaks in North
During his trip President White was the principal speaker before the San Francisco, Oakland, Sacramento, Lodi, Berkeley, Palo Alto, San Jose Realty Boards, and at Santa Cruz addressed a large district meeting where representatives of five boards were present.

Mayor B. F. Wright of Monterey, vice president of the California Real Estate association presided at the Santa Cruz meeting.

The state president will spend the next four weeks visiting local real estate boards.

ADVERTISING HAS MADE MARKETS

Pacific Coast Growers Are Being Imitated by Eastern Fruit Men

By J. C. ROYLE
Special Correspondence of the Glendale Evening News, Copyright, 1924
NEW YORK, Nov. 29.—The Pacific coast not only told the world but showed it, the advantages of advertising its products and grading and packing them attractively. The Atlantic coast has just begun to learn that lesson and has absorbed it so well that growers have captured a good part of the business of their instructors.

Today there is not a high class grocery in New York city, which is not featuring New York apples, graded accurately and packed in a carton holding a dozen samples of the fruit which can be opened to show customers.

For the first time eastern apples are being asked for under a trade name and the growers are only sorry that their output was so small they cannot fulfill the demand. Florida is emulating California in grading citrus fruits with excellent results and the failure of Georgia peach growers to make a profit from a crop unexcelled in size and quality has shown that it cannot go it alone.

Merritt Aids Farmers
That is the reason Ralph P. Merritt was appointed to the commission to improve the financial condition of the farmers. Mr. Merritt is head of the California Raisin Growers and has made a thorough success of the cooperative movement in his field. But that field is not a new one. The Mormon church instituted the movement and built up one of the greatest mercantile institutions in the country through its means over 75 years ago.

co-operative movement, as it is known in the west has held a dominating position during that time and has withstood the tests of time and changing conditions. When the Mormons settled the Salt Lake Valley in 1847 they had little or no United States currency. But each Mormon was expected to pay into the treasury of the church 10 per cent of his income. Naturally he did this in produce. There was a titheing yard established where this produce was weighed and valued. Receipts for it were issued known as "tithing script" which was good for an exchange of goods at the mercantile store operated by the church. The use of that script has passed with competition in communications but the idea of cooperative selling and buying has never passed and stands today as the foremost example of a movement which many experts declare is the only solution of the farmers financial problem.

Increases Growers' Income
The commission appointed by President Coolidge has ceased deliberations until fresh data from governmental departments is made available to it but the cooperative marketing of farm products has not ceased bringing increased income and buying power to the tillers of the soil. There is still room for much improvement. Terminal market facilities for fresh fruit and vegetables need wide readjustment which many feel can come only by federal legislation. The taxation question is also bothering agriculturists. California, for example, paid in taxes in the last year over $500,000,000 or more than all the products of the soil of that state yielded to its owners.

It is estimated that about one seventh of the income of the country now is diverted to tax payments. According to Paul Shoup, vice president of the Southern Pacific railroad, taxes are thirteen

Board Memberships Aid Business, Claim

Membership in the local realty board is a valuable asset to a real estate broker, according to figures just released by the California Real Estate association, showing the percentage of big real estate transactions completed by members of real estate boards. A study of the year 1924 will show that at least 75 per cent of the outstanding deals have been started and completed under the auspices of members of the local realty boards, it is said.

The benefit that comes by closer relationship of brokers at the board meetings; the interchange of ideas; the social side of the business; the certainty of standardized methods, protecting buyer, seller and broker have caused many of the keenest minds in the real estate world to join local realty boards.

Values Of Corners In Glendale Going Up, Claims Realtor

How much is land worth? Last week the northwest corner of Hollywood boulevard and Vine street, Los Angeles, sold for $472,000, or $4,000 a front foot. Hollywood boulevard and Brand boulevard to one another in their business futures. Both lead directly into downtown Los Angeles. Both are high class suburban shopping districts.

J. A. Endicott of 116 South Brand boulevard, a prominent Glendale realtor, is regarded as an expert on Brand boulevard values. Let him boil the thing down into a paragraph and point the moral:

"Today the corners of Hollywood boulevard and Cahuenga avenue, Los Angeles, are among the most valuable in the city, which means anywhere on the Pacific coast. Today the corners of Brand boulevard and Broadway, the business center of Glendale, could be bought for around $3,500 a front foot, if they were for sale. Tremendous profits are to be reaped on Brand boulevard in the next few years. Values here are in their infancy. Today property in the first block north and south of Broadway, on Brand boulevard, can be bought for $3,000 a front foot. A profit of $1,000 a front foot can be made here in two years. Time will prove me right and make some investors rich."

BUILDING MARKET FIRM, MOLZ SAYS

Secretary-Manager Glendale Exchange Advises Care Selecting Contractor

By HENRY MOLZ
Secretary-Manager Builders' Exchange
Holding off with building operations in the expectancy that construction costs will come down is not upheld by present indications. The material market is firm and bids fair to continue so. Wages, the controlling factor in building costs entering as they do, in both the production and installation of building materials have not declined so that no hope of a lower cost based on the wage rate can be expected.

Builders, however, by playing fair with contractors whom they ask to bid on their jobs would in time materially help to reduce the cost of the contractors doing business by the elimination of much of his overhead. Unfair competition in building is doing much to keep up construction costs. It is an expensive proposition to figure a plan. Days, weeks and even months are devoted to jobs in the preparation of the bid, and some one has to foot the bill.

Handling of Bids
Bids should be opened in the presence of all bidders and the lowest bidder, everything else being equal, given the job. Many times contractors are asked to figure a job merely to satisfy the owner that his favorite contractor to whom he has resolved to give the contract, is in line with his price. Manifestly, this is unfair, estimating should be restricted to fair competition on actual work to be erected and the lowest bidder given the contract.

As in every other business, the contractor pro-rates his overhead into a certain fixed charge which is added to his bid. Obviously, distribution thereof over many jobs helps to reduce it to a minimum as to each one of them. If the contractor, however, fails to get the job, he fails to recoup his overhead to the extent of the expense involved in the preparation of the bid. Many such failures tend to increase his overhead, and building costs go up.

Thus it will be seen that the builder can do much to lower building costs, and if he will lend his aid, help educate his fellow builders to this fact, a decided lowering of costs is possible.

Reliable Contractors
The honest and reliable contractors as are our leading wholesale and retail merchants, are in business to earn a reasonable margin of profit and there is no denying the fact they are entitled to that. Prospective builders in their interests will do well to consider this. The irresponsible and the fly-by-night may contract to do the job for less and they generally do but they will bear watching. No prudent man is in business for the love of it. We all need the wherewithal to exist, and taking contracts at cost and less than cost as many do, fails to bring

INDUSTRIAL LEADERS TO TALK

Conference at Anaheim of Realty Boards Will Aid Southland

By California News Service.
LOS ANGELES, Nov. 29.—The first statewide industrial conference of the California Real Estate association, held under the auspices of the Anaheim Realty Board, has created in the mind of the real estate broker in the smaller cities the advantages that will follow a careful study by one of the board members of the industrial conditions of his community with a view to locating manufacturing plants with payrolls in his town.

While the bigger cities will probably maintain their undisputed supremacy as industrial centers it is a fact, gleaned by a survey of the industrial situation of the state, that in the smaller cities there are certain advantages that many manufacturers avail themselves of in locating a factory. Both Santa Ana and Anaheim have industrial tracts that are employing between 1000 and 2000 people in these towns, and the largest window glass factory west of the Mississippi is just opening in Santa Ana a $250,000 plant, which will be in operation by the first of the year.

Splendid Program
From all parts of the state come notification from men prominent in industrial California that they will address the conference. From San Francisco will come Charles S. Knight, director of industrial development, California Development association; from Oakland, Fred E. Reed, vice president elect of the National Association of Real Estate Boards; W. H. Davin, analytical realtor; F. L. S. Harmon, vice president of industrial manager of the Central Manufact-

Realty Boards to Make Membership Drive Big Success

Oakland, San Diego, Fresno, Tulare, Lodi, Porterville, Riverside, San Pedro, Long Beach, Palo Alto, Bell, San Jose, Santa Cruz, Stockton, Santa Monica, San Bernardino, Redlands, Santa Ana, Anaheim, Pasadena and Berkeley are among the realty boards that have endorsed the California Realty Board Membership Week, December 8-13, according to advices received at the headquarters of the California Real Estate association.

California leads the nation in the number of brokers in realty board organizations, governed by a code of ethics which they, in joining the organization promise to maintain. There are more realtors in California than in any other state. California was likewise the first state to adopt a license law and the first to create a state real estate department. Eighteen states have followed California's lead.

It is the desire of the realty boards of the state to maintain the premier position in real estate legislation and real estate organization, and for that reason every member of a realty board in the state has been asked to secure an additional member during the week of December 8-13.

The membership committee of the Glendale Realty board will do its share, it is announced.

Shoe Shop Employees Will Continue Strike

WAKEFIELD, Mass., Nov. 29.—The employees of the L. B. Evans Shoe company who have been on strike at the plant here since September 29 because the company insisted on open shop conditions have voted to refuse to return to work.

PRESIDENT W. L. TWINING NAMES MEMBERS TO SERVE GLENDALE DURING YEAR

Greatest Advancement Will Be Seen Here in 1925, Prediction Made by Realtors' Leader, Who Enlists Support of Many Dealers

In anticipation of the greatest year of advancement and growth in the history of Glendale, eighteen standing committees of the Glendale Realty board, which will be entrusted with much of the important work of the realtors during 1925, have been chosen with the utmost of care by President William L. Twining, and only after consultation with the board of directors. Every committee is strong, and has in it the men believed to be best fitted for the particular work, Mr. Twining stated. He predicted that much success will attend the efforts of the different committees and that they will prove of material benefit to both the realty board and the city at large.

Personal letters have been sent to each committeeman asking whether he will serve and function faithfully. Mr. Twining stated. He said that in almost all instances replies pledging their best efforts have been received.

Work Already Begun
Already the committee on education, headed by D. C. Castelman, has a course of instruction for the realtors mapped out. Announcement of the plan will be made at the meeting of the Realty board next week. Other members of the committee working with Mr. Castelman are George D. McMill and W. S. Kirk.

Probably the most important matter before the board at present is the membership drive to be staged from December 8 to 13. These are the dates set by the California Real Estate association for a state-wide membership drive. Locally, the membership committee, composed of W. F. Hope, chairman, Gould E. Warren, Max Woods, W. E. Mercer and M. A. Stumpf, plan a vigorous campaign to enlist every reputable real estate broker in the city as an active member of the board, and all salesmen employed by realtors as associate members. Indications are, President Twining predicted, that, as on other occasions, Glendale will lead the state in new memberships during the state-wide drive.

Securing Industry
W. L. Truitt, chairman, and other members of the industrial committee are now completing negotiations for an industrial concern which will require a plant 50 by 100 feet in dimensions and hiring approximately seventy-five men. It was indicated that prospects of securing this new industry for Glendale through the Realty board are very good. Other members of the industrial committee working on the project are Arthur Campbell, E. D. Hamlin and D. J. Hanna.

A series of monthly get-together meetings to be staged with a dinner and entertainment are being planned by Jack Galvin and his entertainment committee. Definite announcement concerning

AMERICAN CITY PROBLEMS MANY

National Real Estate Body Gives Consideration to Metropolitan Needs

American cities, with their present rapid growth and the increasing demand for homes away from the crowded "section," are constantly breaking over their boundaries into new territory. But the march of an urban population into the region still under the township authority brings some large problems. Haphazard development of the outlying territories, plots laid out without reference to the way in which they conform to the city's plan or arterial streets, residence lots parceled out far from water and sewer connections, hampering of the semi-urban territory by legal restrictions as to township expenditure framed to meet the needs of a purely rural township, these are some of the growing pains of suburban territories.

To Study Cities' Plans
The creation of metropolitan areas, or districts, is the device which modern cities have evolved to aid in the adjustment of these difficulties. The National Association of Real Estate Boards will undertake a study of how far American cities have devised successful plans for the development of suburban territories through metropolitan areas, and will hold a national round table discussion of subdividers looking to the encouragement of workable plans, and toward the spread of such methods of subdivision development as will make for sound and healthy city growth.

The study has been undertaken by the Home Builders and Subdividers Division of the association by action of its executive committee. Irenaeus Shuler, of Omaha, has been chosen to make the investigation of present policies of city planning commissions and regional planning commissions in regard to outlying territories. The problem of the development of subdivisions in outlying sections will be a central theme at the all-day meeting of the Division to be held in connection with the annual meeting of the National Association of Real Estate Boards at Dallas, January 13-16, inclusive.

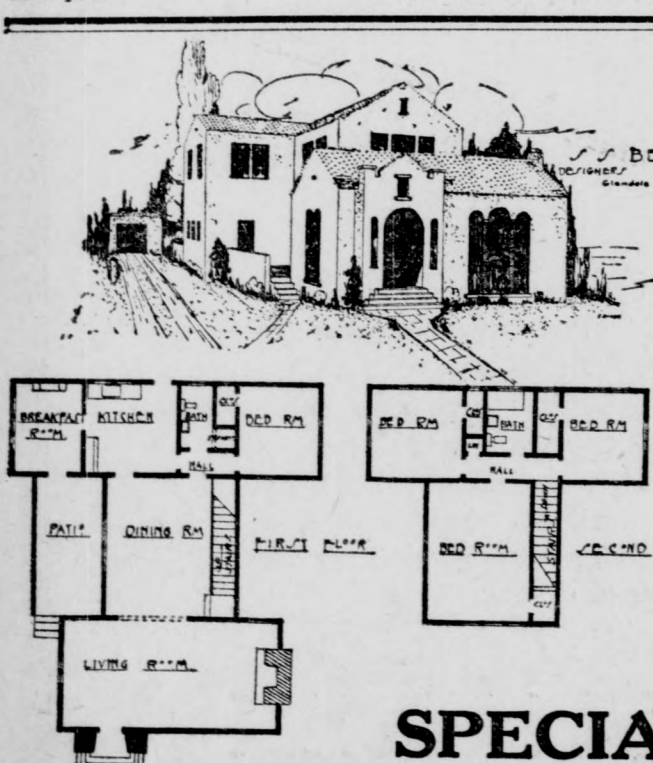

The carrying of transportation and of public utilities into the suburban area will be another subject to be considered by the Division at this session. Frank B. Upshaw, of Portland, will lead the discussion. H. A. Brown, of Brockton, Massachusetts, will lead the round-table conference on the extent to which community-owned playgrounds and recreation centers can be made possible by the subdivider even for a moderately priced subdivision. Bert L. Clogston, Los Angeles, who will take the chairmanship of the division at the January meeting, will lead the discussion on financing methods which make subdivision development possible. Guy Ellis, of Detroit, will lead the discussion on selling methods.

The meeting, to be held simultaneously with those of the six other great divisions of the association on the opening day of the convention, will be an informal exchange of business experience on a national scale. All members of the division are invited to take part in the discussions.

times as high as they were in 1880, while states and municipalities have mortgaged their future prosperity for vast sums which eventually must be paid by property owners. Land owners therefore are looking to the new commission for suggestions for a reduction of this burden and a definite program which will enable tillers of the soil to market their products in an orderly way and at a profit.

House That Is Different

Here is an unusual, yet attractive design. The large landscape windows in the front provide ample view and the covered corner porch adds beauty to the appearance of the structure. Plenty of room is provided in the floor plans prepared by Bentley Lumber Co., 460 West Los Feliz road.

You'll like this home plan because it's different.

While the exterior is shown in stucco it would be equally as attractive built of frame or brick. The landscape windows in front offer a wonderful view from living and dining room, and the corner covered porch is used as a combination recreation and entry.

Three well arranged bedrooms make this home practical for a large family—the bath room is spacious and by means of a convenient hall offers direct connection to the main rooms. In the kitchen and on the back screened-in porch every conceivable labor and time-saving convenience is included; in fact, nothing has been omitted or overlooked which would make this a real home.

"In offering prospective builders a new and better way to approach the most important business, building a home, we find we are confronted by a perfectly natural inclination to question the truth of our claims for maintaining the most complete and modern plan service in the entire San Fernando valley," said an official of the Bentley Lumber Co., 460 West Los Feliz road. "In this brief account we shall try to show you how we do as we do, as well as give sound reasons why we can help you as no one else can."

"Our plan service has been in operation some years. Thousands of houses have been built from our plans since that time, the majority in Glendale, Hollywood, Pasadena, Flintridge, La Crescenta, Tujunga, and Eagle Rock. Being at one time contractors and builders of homes we have studied the building question from the standpoint of the needs of the homebuilder in Southern California."

"Glendale and the vicinity, is literally the melting pot of the nation, people coming here from every state in the country. Many come for the sole purpose of making their home. These homes cover an amazing style and cost, to suit almost every taste. Home building and home planning are fine arts. It is well within the truth to say that in this respect this city and vicinity is fully 25 years ahead of any other. Our reason for mentioning this is to show you that we have first hand opportunities to observe and keep our plan service ahead with the latest ideas, selecting the best, by which you will profit. Southern California homes are models for all over the world."

"In the human, the mind fears the unknown, the unseen. There are unseen dangers in homebuilding to be sure. 'How then,' you ask, 'may I protect myself from these fears and what are a few of the problems that confront a homebuilder?' "You are not decided on the style to build, either a one or a two story. Where can I get building ideas; building information that is reliable? To whom would you let a contract? Will you demand a bond? Are you familiar with the lien law? How may you obtain a reasonable security for your investment? Building material quality, how may you obtain it? Service, what is its value, or its costly delay? Explain dependability of the seller of building material, as well as that of the contractor or carpenter."

"What is building satisfaction? Because plans and specifications are my first consideration, how can I obtain them? Special plans drawn by an architect are expensive, what plan do you have whereby I may obtain the services of an architect, but my cost for his services are one third or one half the regular cost?"

"These problems confront every one who builds, and are a few of the problems our service department endeavors to help the homebuilder solve."

Intelligent Selling Solves Problems

a house into a home may be in part the general atmosphere of the town, the neighborhood, and the street which give it a setting.

There's a center of decision in every household. It may be the wife, it may be the husband, it may very possibly be the daughter, particularly if she is just growing up, and as a social career opening before her. Good salesmanship doesn't overlook the weight of opinion which growing sons and daughters have in determining where the family should make their home.

Fitting Family to Home

When you're fitting a family into a home it's part of the service to help "see" just where the piano and the chaise longue would be put.

It's easier to see how it would feel to live in a house if you take off your hat and coat and sit down comfortably in the rooms as you look at them.

In the art of fitting families into homes there's no room for the salesman who doesn't know every detail about the houses, or who attempts in any way to conceal undesirable features of houses on his list, the association's study course emphasizes.

Further topics which will be taken by the institute's study in its course in real estate practice include planning the manner of showing property for sale, closing the sale, financing real estate transactions, knowing property values, appraising residential and commercial property, renting, managing real property, leases, subdividing, building construction, design and costs, and some important principles of real estate law and of land economics.

Membership in the institute is open to anyone interested in acquiring a knowledge of real estate practice.

Development of country lands, bringing in of industries, education of the broker, use of the entire fund paid in by the brokers and salesmen for licenses for the administration of the act, qualification examination for new broker applicants, use of standardized and uniform methods by real estate offices, organization of real estate boards in every community having a distinct political or community life, and declared that the Chamber of Commerce, Sacramento, San Diego, Fresno, Long Beach, Huntington Park, the Orange County harbor, Santa Ana and Anaheim will be represented. It is an all day conference and speeches will be limited to 20 minutes.

Report of Convention

Real Estate Commissioner Edwin T. Kelsie following the editing of the proceedings and speeches at the twentieth annual convention of the California Real Estate association at Pasadena last month, has announced that the state real estate department will print the data on the convention, including the speeches dealing with the real estate practice in this state, as well as the reports of the various divisional chairmen. The state convention was the most successful ever held, more than 1400 being registered, and the state real estate commissioner feels that all brokers in California should have the benefit of knowing first hand the valuable information offered the profession at this great gathering.

the primary causes of curtailed output. Further declines in production of petroleum were reported from California, average daily output during October (603,115 barrels) being smaller than during any month since February, 1923, and 29.7 per cent below the peak figure of September, 1923, ($58,750 barrels per day). Stored stocks increased by 433,896 barrels (0.5 per cent) during the month, production still being slightly in excess of consumption.

Whole sale trade reports for October showed increases in sales as compared with September in practically all lines except agricultural implements, automobile supplies, and automobile tires, products which normally experience a decline in demand toward the close of the year. Continuation of marked irregularity in the wholesale trade situation is indicated, however, by the many declines in value of sales as compared with a year ago, seven of the eleven reporting lines showing decreases varying from 3.9 to 22.7 per cent. Trade at retail, although exhibiting a greater (than seasonal) increase as compared with September, 1924, was smaller in value during October, 1924, than during October, 1923. Stocks of reporting stores at the close of October were slightly larger than in the previous year and the indicated rate of turnover for the month was less rapid than a year ago.

A sharp and widespread upward movement of prices took place in October, the index of wholesale prices compiled by the United States Bureau of Labor Statistics showing an increase of 2 per cent for the month. The chief gains were in the farm products group which advanced 4.2 per cent. Prices of the principal products of this district, both agricultural and non-agricultural, shared quite generally in the advance.

The volume of member bank credit in use in this district was at record levels during October, but borrowings from the Reserve bank were smaller than at any time since 1917 and interest rates were relatively low. Commercial loans of 66 reporting member banks in principal cities advanced from $19,000,000 on October 8, 1924, to $33,000,000 on October 22, 1924, the highest figure reported since January, 1921. These loans stood at $31,000,000 on November 5, 1924. Total loans and investments of the banks, at $1,459,000,000 on November 5, 1924, were larger than ever before. Demand and time deposits of member banks have increased in substantially the same proportion as have their loans and the ratio of loans to deposits has declined slightly during the past year.

ANSWERS TO CORRESPONDENTS

"Dear Doctor Peters: My wife is a dutiful wife in every respect, but the observance of my wishes, but that she refrain from preparing such delicious viands that I indulge in in an unseemly manner, to my consuming regret and resulting remorse, not to mention the consequent additions to my gradually mounting poundage. I am five feet, eight inches tall, and weigh 161 pounds.

"My wife derives such keen satisfaction in the results of her handiwork that she also waxes fat. She would prefer to be her slim self again and while her appearance is far from displeasing to me, I would not deny her wish to regain her girlish slimness if in the doing thereof I also regained my flat-tumpled, athletic type physique of my youthful days. She is five feet, four inches high, and weighs 134. Both of us desire to weigh less. In union there is strength of purpose, and so we beseech your advice and instruction to end the twin shadows be as one. We thank you very kindly.—M. H."

Good, I'm glad to know of one truthful husband.

According to the rule of 110 pounds for five feet in height, in stocking feet, and five and one-half pounds for every inch over that, you are but seven pounds overweight, M. H., and dutiful wife is normal weight. That would indicate that you have not measured your height correctly or that you have taken your height in your shoes. That would mean two inches or so taller than what you think you are. Or, it may show that you are small boned and the average weight is too much for you. However it is, you do well to begin now to reduce, for the old adage that an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure operates here to a T, whatever that is.

Just call Little wife's attention to how much more time she is going to have for reading and doing other things which will improve her when she spends less time in the kitchen concocting those delicious things. I imagine they most often take the form of rich desserts, don't they? I think if you would refuse to touch them and take some fruit instead, it will have an effect on her.

M. has kindly contributed these fancy dishes for guest meals.) Peach Dessert: Crumble pieces of stale cake finely and fill one-half of a canned peach with these crumbs. Cover with another half peach, fitted on so as to give the appearance of a whole peach. Surround on an individual fancy dessert plate with whipped and sweetened cream. Sprinkle with shredded cocoanut and serve.

Peach and Nut Salad: Fill half a can of peaches with diced apples and bananas mixed in equal portions. Put a dab of sweetened whipped cream on top of each peach half, on a lettuce leaf, garnish with a hickory nut meat. Serve with the peaches' own can syrup poured over them.

Peach Pie: Blend together two-thirds of a cup of sugar and one heaping tablespoon of dry cornstarch powder, when well mixed, stir into one cup of scalding hot water and put this over the fire to cook till the consistency of custard and smooth. Now add the beaten yolks of two eggs and cook a little longer. Let cool, add one cup of canned peaches rubbed through a wide-meshed sieve or cut very small, and pour the mixture into a previously baked under crust. Spread two stiffly-beaten egg whites over the top of the pie and dot here and there with a plump marshmallow. Return the pie pan to the oven for a few minutes till the meringue is delicately browned."

Subscriber: "Pineapple Tart: Make a cake batter of one cup of sugar, two tablespoons of butter, two eggs, five tablespoons of water or pineapple juice, one cup of flour and one teaspoon of vanilla, putting these ingredients together in the usual way. Now caramelize one cup of brown sugar in a skillet and add to it two tablespoons of butter. Turn this caramelized butter-and-sugar mixture into a greased pan, lay sliced, drained canned pineapple over it and pour the cake batter over all. The Wrath To Come

CHAPTER XXXII

"Why not?" she demanded. "You're your own master. You could steam away tomorrow morning before any one was about. You told me only the other day that you were always ready for an emergency."

"Quite true," he agreed. "But not this emergency."

"He has insulted me," she declared, "and he's insufferable. No self-respecting woman ought to marry a German. She becomes a worse chattel than the plaything of a Mohammedan."

"I am terribly sorry for you," Grant assured her, "but what you are contemplating now would only make matters worse. You must remember this, too. Your husband is a Roman Catholic. He would never divorce you."

She was silent.

"You don't want me," she muttered.

"Perhaps I don't want you in the spirit in which you have come," he answered gently. "You simply want to revenge yourself upon your husband and you offer me the chance of revenging myself, too. It isn't quite a big enough feeling, Gertrude. The satisfaction of it wouldn't last for the rest of our lives."

"Since when have you learnt to preach?" she scoffed.

"A man doesn't need to preach or hesitate about taking another man's wife," he rejoined. "This is just an impulse of yours, Gertrude."

She tried to drag him back toward the gangway.

"Let me come on the yacht," she begged. "I mean it. I don't care even if he won't divorce me."

"You're not coming on," he insisted. "Not tonight, at any rate."

She looked at him with quick suspicion.

"Have you anyone else there?" she demanded.

"You know very well that I have not," he answered indignantly. "Adventures of that sort do not appeal to me."

"Very well," she said. "You won't let me yield to one impulse. You can't prevent my yielding to another. I have a disclosure to make. I came to Monte Carlo to spy on you."

"I knew that quite well," he replied.

"Knew it? How could you?"

"Because the newspaper you showed me with my name on bore the yellow pencil marks of your secret service."

"Well," she went on, "I haven't made much of you—I've learnt more from Arthur Lymane. But I've found out a few things and my people are content with what seem to be trifles. You won't let me give myself away. I'll give them away. They know that Lord Yeovil is going to propose an invitation to America to join the Pact. They'll pretend to acquiesce. In reality they're going to vote against it."

"Three of them, perhaps," Grant interposed quickly. "Which one have they induced to be the fourth?"

"That is what I am going to tell you," she said. "Baron Punderstrom."

"The Scandinavian!" Grant exclaimed.

"It has cost them fifty thousand pounds," she continued, "but they have his promise. Four votes and the motion is lost. Those four are arranged for. Now do you believe that I am in earnest when I tell you that I hate my husband? Do you still forbid me to come on the yacht?"

"Yes," he answered.

He was standing with his hand upon the rail of the gangplank. She came close to him. Her eyes were filled with tears. "Let me come, Grant," she begged. "I will be content just to be cared for as you used to care for me. I don't mind what happens to me. You can hide me away, if you like. You can come back here alone if you want. I won't complain. Only I must have some one kind to me. Let me come, please."

His arm barred the way.

"Gertrude," he said, "this may hurt but it's best. I care for some one else. I couldn't have you on the yacht. It wouldn't be honest."

"Some one else!" she muttered.

"Well, why not?"

She stood away for a moment, on the edge of the dock. She was looking down at the waters of the harbor. He caught her by the arm.

"Gertrude," he asked, "do you think that they will have missed you yet?"

"I don't think so," she answered. "They were all talking in Blum's rooms. Some one else, Grant! Why didn't you tell me?"

Views and Previews Theatres From Studios

Compiled by Members of The Evening News Staff

DOUBSON PLAYERS

"Mamma's Affair" was offered this afternoon at the Tuesday Afternoon club theatre and will be presented again tonight, the curtain rising at 8:15 o'clock. This is the Harvard prize play by Rachel Barton Butler, chosen from among fifty as most worthy to receive the $500 prize given by Oliver Morosco.

Gertrude Kellar, in the title role, gives a remarkable interpretation of a selfish mother who prides herself on her great love for her only daughter. Miss Kellar ranks high in dramatic ability. Joseph McManus, an actor of prominence, both here and in the east, portrays the role of Dr. Jansen, whose candid diagnosis of wealthy neurotics is severe, is a character of perfect interpretation, and his scenes with Eve Orrin hold the audience spellbound. Mary Isabelle Alpaugh as Eve Orrin does the finest dramatic work of her career.

William H. Stephens as Henry Marchant, the well trained son, whose engagement to Eve is a source of pleasure to his mother, does clever work. Laura Winston, a newcomer, portrays the role of Mrs. Bundy, Dr. Jansen's housekeeper. Her work is inimitable and finished. Richard Ehlers as Tommy Hooper, the bell hop, is typical of his part. George Pearce, director, is to be commended.

TRAVEL LECTURE

Under the auspices of the travel department of the Tuesday Afternoon club the travel picture "This is the Life," with lecture by Charles Kay, traveler, will be given tonight in the banquet hall at the Tuesday Afternoon clubhouse. The picture was shown recently in Glendale and has received such favorable comment that the club women were desirous of presenting it through their travel department. It is a Cunard feature picture made at sea, showing the activities and pleasures aboard a great ocean liner. Mr. Kay's travelogue is equally as entertaining as the picture. The public is invited to attend. There will be no admission charge.

THE GLENDALE

"Thundering Hoofs" concludes today at the Glendale theatre.

THE T. D. & L.

PITTS PLAYERS

"The Fortune Hunter" shows again tonight at the tent theatre of Pitts Players, San Fernando boulevard at Cedar street, Burbank. An orchestra of eight girls, playing popular melodies, is announced as an added feature. The curtain rises at 8:15 o'clock.

Ample parking space has been provided for all cars and other arrangements have been made for the comfort and convenience of the audience.

The cast is made up of sixteen well selected artists who for two nights now have presented their snappy play to Glendale and Burbank audiences without admission charge. The management urges theatregoers to come early, as a large crowd is expected.

GATEWAY THEATRE

It took three years to bring the lifetime story of Abraham Lincoln to the screen; three years to mirror the story of America's greatest man; three years of research, of building replicas of the scenes of Lincoln's life. The producers have pictured everything in this production of his life. Beginning with his birth, they carry him through childhood to the days of his youth as a rail-splitter. Then follows the glowing romance of Ann Rutledge and Abraham Lincoln. Next we find him as a promising young lawyer and then comes the campaign for presidency. There is tense drama in this campaign.

Trying days as chief executive of the land are shown. Lincoln and his cabinet are pictured as though they might be alive today. And the greatest achievement of it all is that in this production we find history's pages turned into a rare entertainment. This production has been accorded the highest praise by the greatest men of the land. It is a fitting thing for young and old to see, for each one will find something different in it to admire and applaud.

George Billings, who appears as Abraham Lincoln, doesn't just look the part. He is the real Lincoln, in both appearance and character. Friends of the great president who are still alive marveled at his close resemblance. They said if Lincoln were alive today and the two walked down the street together, no one could tell them apart.

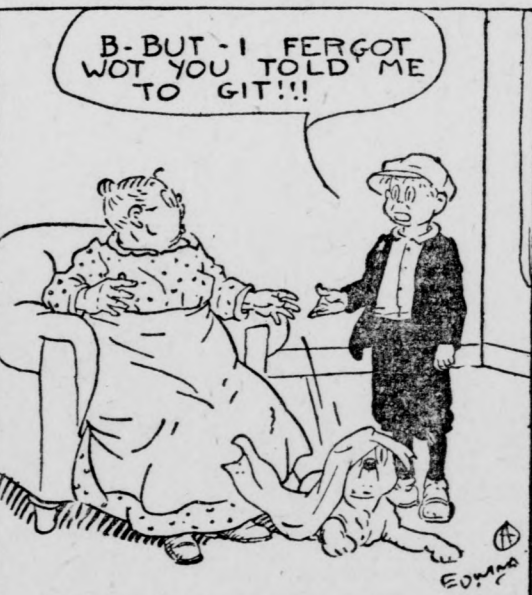

Abraham Lincoln is showing at the Gateway theatre Sunday, Monday and Tuesday of next week.

Uncle Wiggily

UNCLE WIGGLY AND THE HORSE CHESTNUTS

Johnnie and Billie Bushytail, the squirrel boys, had made themselves a playhouse in the woods. They had piled up some dried leaves and branches of the trees until they had a cute little bungalow, and there they would scamper and have much fun.

Johnnie was chasing Billie in and around the playhouse one day when, all of a sudden, Billie stopped running.

"What's the matter? Aren't you going to play any more?" chattered Johnnie.

"Yes, but I just thought of something," answered Billie. "I think it would be very jolly to ask Uncle Wiggily to come here to our playhouse."

"He wouldn't want to run around and play as we do," said Johnnie. "He'd say it hurt his rheumatism."

"We wouldn't want him to play with us," spoke Billie. "All we would want would be for him to come here. And he'd bring us some candy and cake, I'm sure."

"What makes you sure?" Johnnie wanted to know.

"Oh, well, we could say we were going to have a party in our playhouse, or something like that. And Uncle Wiggily would know you couldn't have a party without something good to eat so he'd bring it. Let's ask him!"

"All right," agreed Johnnie. So over they ran to the hollow stump bungalow of the rabbit gentleman.

"Uncle Wiggily isn't at home," said Nurse Jane when the squirrel boys scratched on the front door with their paws.

"Well, please tell him to come over to our playhouse when he comes home," begged Johnnie. "We're going to have a party there."

"Maybe," added Billie. "And if."

"Maybe and if what?" Nurse Jane wanted to know, but the squirrel boys laughed and ran away without telling her.

"I guess they mean maybe they'll have a party if Uncle Wiggily goes," laughed Nurse Jane to herself. And when the rabbit gentleman hopped home to his bungalow she told him what Johnnie and Billie said.

"Of course I'll go to their playhouse," said Uncle Wiggily. "I must take them some candy and cake, too. One always does at a party."

"I guess that's why they asked you," sniffed Nurse Jane.

However, Uncle Wiggily went to the playhouse, taking many good things to eat, and when Johnnie and Billie saw that their plan had worked they were very happy.

Uncle Wiggily was having a jolly good time with the squirrel boys in the playhouse, when, all of a sudden, Johnnie looked from a window, which was just a hole between two leaves, and Johnnie cried:

"Here comes the Bob Cat! Here comes the Bob Cat!"

Through the woods came scrambling the bad Bob Cat.

"Oh ho! oh ho! oh ha and oh hee!" he howled. "I'll soon get Uncle Wiggily now!"

But in a corner of the playhouse the rabbit gentleman saw a lot of hard, brown horse chestnuts which the squirrels had gathered to play with. For squirrels don't eat horse chestnuts unless they are almost starving,

CONVICTS LABOR CAMPS NOT OPEN

State Highway Engineer Refutes Announcement Of 'Open House'

SACRAMENTO, Nov. 29.—Convict labor camps housing men from the state prisons employed in the building of state highways are not open to the public and visitors, except those who have business in the camps are properly identified, are not admitted. This is the announcement of State Highway Engineer R. M. Morton, following reports from Bakersfield that prisoners in a road camp in the Kern River canyon planned an "open house" on Armistice day in connection with a baseball game between the camp and an outside organization.

"No such thing as an 'open house' or public inspection of a convict road camp was planned in Kern county as far as I have been informed," said Mr. Morton, "and no such an inspection ever has been permitted at any convict road camp in this state."

Public Not Invited
"Such a program as published reports indicate was contemplated at the Kern River camp is prohibited by the regulations of the Board of Prison Directors and the rules of the California Highway commission. Convicts engaged in road building are in what practically amounts to unguarded home camps. Admission of the public would make their proper administration impossible and cannot and will not be permitted under any circumstances."

"Arrangement for such a public inspection by any employee of the highway commission," Morton continued, "would constitute a serious breach of discipline."

The organization of baseball teams has been allowed to provide necessary recreation and prison teams have been permitted to play with outside organizations as have baseball teams within the penitentiaries. On Armistice day, the team at the Kern prison camp was taken a short distance from camp headquarters to a level place in the canyon where a game was played with an outside club. This is all there is to the story of the 'open house.'

While a reasonable amount of recreation is allowed the convicts, the public may be assured that the men are in the road camps to work and that it is the constant endeavor of the state highway organization in charge to secure a maximum of results from their labors."

on Broadway. "I flash the lights, I buzz the button urging them to hurry, and nothing happens. I have to go to rout each of them again and I have to do it all over again during their various appearances."

"Then there is the actor's side. One star, whose name blazes in bright lights over the door of one of the city's chief show houses, displayed marked despair. "What is the use of going on the stage?" he asked "when the audience is so busy thinking of something else that it fails to get half of our wise cracks? We might as well be late ourselves. We might as well, even, not appear at all—if we would stand behind the scenes and yell meaningless words from the other side of the curtain."

The rumor was current in Broadway that a play will be put on before too many months have passed featuring the cross word puzzle with an idea of satisfying all parties concerned. A big playwright has the contract and theme, it is honestly said, will be a parallel to the story of the "gold widow" of whom the country heard so much a year or so ago.

The board of directors of the Gibraltar Finance corporation, with headquarters at 218 South Brand boulevard, has been augmented by the recent addition of Joseph Fortunato, of 534 North Isabel street, known throughout Southern California as an artisan in tile and mantel work. Mr. Fortunato is proprietor of the Glendale Tile & Mantel Co. of 107 West Doran street.

COMMENT by GIL A. COWAN

Most astounding news on the eve of another session of Congress is the decision of Republican leaders to "forget, but not forgive" the senators who bolted the party at the last election. No doubt they had cause to do so—and it is a price the politician pays, but this writer believes they were duly "forgotten" by the voters.

Ignoring one's adversary or opponent is the most effective means of administering a whipping. Publicly "reading them out" of the party is apt to incite rancor among the many who followed La Follette to defeat. One must remember, too, that a Wisconsin porcupine is more dangerous cornered than left alone.

There is no doubt but what the "lame duck" Congress is going to perform with more alacrity than has been seen in some years. President Coolidge is in the fortunate position of being a safe helmsman with a loyal crew. His "first mates" in the Senate, having put La Follette, Brookhart, Ladd and Foster in "irons," there is no reason why the machinery should not function perfectly.

That's what the people have been hoping for—exactly what they voted for—the ship of state "full steam ahead."

Barbers of Glendale will be dusting off the old signs which used to permeate the dingiest shops of the smallest villages twenty years ago, which read "Shave and a haircut, two bits." For, if you will note, the health department has been given control of the tonsorial trade.

Not only barbers, but the towel supply firms and allied commerce, will have to answer to the health officer.

But the writer opines that the regulations will amount to as much as those concerning other lines of endeavor.

At that, it is the government's duty to regulate, not to operate. We would hate to have some members of the medical profession shave us. They are too used to "cutting scrapes," if you will pardon an uncouth term for operations.

Naturally enough, the writer knows that the barber shops will be wonderful places to "inspect," now that the women are having their hair bobbed. Fortunately, too, members of the city council are not eligible for the job, unless they resign.

MONTROSE NOTES

MONTROSE, Nov. 29.—Final plans for the first annual booster banquet of the Montrose Chamber of Commerce occupied the attention of the board of directors at the meeting last night held in the offices of the Bettingin Lumber Co. This dinner, which is to be given Tuesday night at 7 o'clock in the Kohl building, will be prepared by the Satchell brothers. Among the prominent persons who will be on the program are William H. Reeves, former city manager of Glendale; Supervisor Wright, former Governor Plaisted of Maine, Harry James and D. Ripley Jackson. James Brown, president of the chamber, will introduce the speakers. A. E. Sullivan of the Bettingin Lumber Co., will assist Mr. Brown as master of ceremonies. Tickets for the dinner are on sale at the Montrose State bank, Simpson Hardware Co., and Montrose drug store.

Taking up routine business, a letter from Mark S. Collins, resigning from the board of directors, was read. The president and board were reluctant to accept the resignation and will prevail upon Mr. Collins to reconsider. Upon a motion made by Theo. Belanger, the January meeting of the chamber will be called to make changes in the present by-laws. The question of changes in the present precincts was up for consideration and will be presented to the members at the regular meeting.

A letter from the road department of Los Angeles county stated the county would not iron out the wrinkles on Honolulu avenue and suggested the property owners forming an improvement association, getting together on the costs which could be spread over a number of years for permanent improvements.

A committee is also working on the paving of Montrose avenue from Waltons drive to Honolulu avenue in the main district of the town.

Lough Quakenbush, assistant secretary of the chamber, tendered his resignation. The resignation was accepted with keen regret. Frank B. Turner will be appointed to succeed Mr. Quakenbush.

Beginning with Sunday, the Montrose Community church will open a week of thanksgiving services to celebrate the first anniversary. Sunday school services will be as usual. At the morning service Rev. A. B. Leonard will deliver the sermon. The Epworth league will hold services at 6:30 o'clock. Rev. W. B. Collins will officiate. Monday night will be Missionary night with an address by Mrs. R. R. Hornbeck, lately returned from Singapore. Tuesday night a lecture will be delivered by Rev. Walter Buchner, who has chosen as his subject "Hilobound."

Club Women Discuss Plans for Christmas

Chairmen of California federation of Women's clubs to the number of fifty, were present at the meeting held yesterday at the Junior Orphan building, Los Angeles, when plans were discussed for Christmas cheer to be provided soldiers at Sawtelle. Mrs. Westervelt, of Santa Monica, sub-chairman of the district, presided at the meeting in the absence of Mrs. H. T. Wright, chairman of the district.

Reports from all clubs represented on their plans for assisting in the work were heard. Two hundred patients at the General hospital will be remembered and each patient will receive a Christmas basket with delicacies and gifts.

Twenty organizations in Glendale are assisting in the work. Mrs. E. W. Gilliland, chairman of co-operation with ex-service men and women for the Tuesday Afternoon club, attended the meeting and reported on the plans of the Glendale organization. A meeting of the chairman with the Red Cross at Sawtelle will be held December 13, when final plans will be made.

Paul Browning Sees Tia Juana Stable Fire

Paul Browning, partner of J. P. Atkin in the "Roseben" court just completed at 122 East Chestnut street, and also associated with Mr. Atkin in many Tia Juana investments, was in the Lower California city late yesterday when the disastrous fire broke out in race stables there, incinerating several thoroughbred racing horses.

Mr. Atkin is general manager of the Tia Juana Jockey club, of which James Coffroth is president. Mr. Browning had left Glendale Wednesday night, to be at the track for the opening of the season. The fifth race yesterday was just drawing to a close when fire was discovered. The two remaining races were at once called off and Mr. Browning made his way with Mr. Atkin to the blazing stables, where they superintended the removal of the many valuable horses that were plunging and stampeding in their mad efforts to seek safety.

It is reported that the track will be open again today. The loss has not yet been computed but will run into many thousands of dollars.

FORUM DINNER IS SET FOR JANUARY

Date Advanced to Prevent Conflict With Program Of Music Club

January 19 has been set as the tentative date for the next open forum dinner of the Chamber of Commerce. Mayor Spencer Robinson and his colleagues on the City Council will have charge of the affair and now are making preparations.

First announcement was that the dinner would take place December 16, but, due to the fact that the "Messiah" is to be given by the Glendale Choral club on that night, the change was necessary. There will be no forum dinner in December.

Secretary Howard I. Wood of the Chamber of Commerce claims that Hollywood chamber is "copping his stuff" in announcing that forum dinners of that body will be conducted by different civic bodies, as is the custom here. Wood claims originality in the idea. The next Hollywood forum will be under the auspices of the Women's club, according to an announcement received by Mr. Wood.

Thanksgiving Bride Acts Honor Maid

An interesting sequel to the Thanksgiving wedding of Miss Gwendoline Mary Simpson and Charles L. Howard of Los Angeles, in the Little Church of the Flowers, Forest Lawn Memorial park, tells of the return of Mr. and Mrs. Howard to the church last night, Friday, November 28, 1924, to attend the marriage of Miss Alice Thurston, maid of honor at their wedding to Jeffrey Stearman of Los Angeles. Mrs. Howard was matron of honor and George V. Stone of Los Angeles was best man at the ceremony, performed at 8 o'clock.

Rev. W. E. Edmonds, pastor of the Glendale Presbyterian church, who was the officiant at both weddings, says it is interesting to note that both brides are natives of England, while their husbands are both from Canada. Both ceremonies were attended by the families. Mr. and Mrs. Howard and Mr. and Mrs. Stearman will reside in Los Angeles.

LOS FELIZ ROAD PROPERTIES SOLD

Business Frontage Changes Hands as Improvements Increase Values

Several large deals involving business property on Los Feliz road in Los Angeles between the Southern Pacific tracks and Griffith park, have been announced by Hayward & McCartney, Glendale realtors. The total frontage in this neighborhood changing hands recently through this firm aggregates 199 feet. Several other important deals are pending. E. P. Hayward stated.

Buyers are being attracted to this district for the reasons that all of the merchants in the vicinity are doing a big business and because of the contemplated street improvements soon to be started. Mr. Hayward added.

"Business is splendid in this limited area," he said. Many who are only temporarily located are seeking permanent sites and lot owners who are willing to invest are finding ready tenants, the best guarantee of successful merchandising and additional increases in realty values.

Values Increased

"Everyone knows how street improvements increase the value of property, and this will be doubly true on a boulevard such as this, which has developed into such an active business district. Concrete road bed to a greater width, with sidewalks, curbs and ornamental lights will soon be installed.

"More than $3,000,000 in addition to that spent on this street work is to be expended for various improvements which have been announced through The Glendale Evening News during the past few months. The latest of these improvements are the $400,000 observatory for Griffith park, and the new bridge across the Los Angeles river to cost $153,000.

"Twenty-two acres adjoining Griffith park are to be developed into a children's playground and it is reported that the city of Glendale state school of the park on Los Feliz boulevard is to be placed on the market this winter. Such development as a background has been responsible for the increased demand for Los Feliz business frontage."

Coast-to-Coast Army Store Is Not Closing

On account of the advertising of the closing out of a store across the street, S. D. Goldsmith, proprietor of the Coast to Coast Army store, Sonoma boulevard and Harvard street, announces that his store is not the one that is to be closed.

He has a long lease on his location and expects to be there for some years to come. The store has just received a new consignment of goods, and Mr. Goldsmith stated that his services are loaded with the best the market affords. The motto of the Coast to Coast Army & Navy Store is "The store that makes your dollars have more sense."

H. S. McCormack Finds His Wardrobe Limited

H. S. McCormack of 624 North Brand boulevard is fulfilling only such social engagements as can be accomplished either in golf togs or a full dress. Meanwhile his tailor is working overtime to fit him out with a new wardrobe. Burglars, that's what.

Returning from a business and pleasure trip to El Centro, in which they were accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Stephen W. Huntington and family of 2011 Kenneth road, Mr. and Mrs. McCormack were confronted with a police notice that their house had been robbed. On reaching the second floor they found a scene of confusion that told the whole story.

"The funny thing about it," says Mr. McCormack, "is that they stole a new wardrobe that I had a whole wardrobe that was untouched. And why they didn't take that dress suit is a mystery."

If Mr. McCormack finds someone walking around Glendale with one of his suits, sparks are apt to fly.

NEW YORK CLOSING

By W. S. COUSINS
For International News Service

NEW YORK, Nov. 29.—Under the leadership of the steel motor and industrial stocks, the main body of speculative stocks swung into higher price levels in the short session of the stock market today. Price movements were decidedly mixed in the railroad and oil stocks, some stocks going forward to higher prices, while others declined under fairly heavy selling pressure.

United States Steel and Studebaker continued at the head, respectively, of the steel and motor stocks, though the independent steels in the former group and General Motors, Willys-Overland and the allied motor accessory stocks gave new exhibitions of strength.

The rise in the reserve ratio of the New York Federal Reserve bank from 76.5 per cent a week ago to 78.2 afforded an evidence of strong position of the money market and confirmed impressions in Wall street that Friday's advance in call money rates to 4 per cent reflected nothing more than preparation for month-end financing. The week-end business reviews of the principal mercantile agencies were perhaps the most favorable with respect to present performance and optimistic in their outlook, that have been seen since the end of the summer. Expansion of the operations of Bethlehem, Republic, Youngstown and other important steel manufacturers was vouched for by the officials of the various companies.

Bethlehem's rise to above 50, Republic at 28, Universal Pipe at 34, Studebaker above 44, United States Rubber above 40, Kennecott above 50, and numerous other excursions into higher price levels placed many of the most active stocks in new high ground for the movement, in some cases representing new highs for the year.

While the rails and oils were somewhat irregular, a few stocks in each group gave special demonstrations of strength. Pure Oil and the Pan-Americans, with Standard Oil of California, were the best performers for the oil stocks. Pure Oil making a new high at 27 1/2. In rails, Pittsburgh & West Virginia gained only four points, and made a new high at 73. Frisco common, Missouri Pacific, New York Central and Atchafalpa made the best records for the rails.

A number of specialties, like American Lined, joined the active group today and were pushed along to higher prices. Old line industrial leaders, like American Can, Baldwin and Cast Iron Pipe, were conspicuously inactive and slightly reactionary.

Stock sales today, 1,212,000 shares; bonds, $8,954,000. Stock sales this week 9,489,700 shares; bonds, $84,358,000.

MINOR LEAGUE IS SET FOR CONFAB

Impression Given Baseball Magnates Are Going To Be Radical

By JOHN B. FOSTER
Special Correspondent of The Glendale Evening News, Copyright, 1924.
NEW YORK, Nov. 29.—Before the members of the International league go to Hartford next week to gather with the National association of minor league baseball leagues, they will hold their annual conference in New York city on Friday.

Baseball men generally seem to have an impression that the International is going to do something radical. There is very little probability that the league will do anything other than consider routine matters in regard to its own organization.

As a whole this circuit is in better condition than it has been for some time. The dire evils that were predicted as likely to fall upon it, because of the stand that it took on the draft, have failed to light. The International league has found, as every other league club in baseball always will find, that it can dispose of star players as easily under one condition as another if it has the stars to sell, and will let them go at a reasonable price.

The Rochester club, which has shown a lot of spirit in trying to develop players, is as well satisfied without the draft as with it—perhaps better satisfied. The Baltimore and Toronto clubs have not lost out in the present arrangement.

Baltimore Gossip

The circuit of the International league will be the same in 1925 as in 1924. There has been some talk about Baltimore having a chance to go into major league circles. First there will have to be a vacancy in the major circuits. While there may be clubs for sale in the National league, which is probably quite true, there is no disposition to change the circuit and there is very little likelihood that the sale of a club would carry with it the transfer of a franchise to Baltimore.

The National league still regrets the suit that was brought by Baltimore men to declare organized baseball a trust. The action of the Baltimore interests at that time rankled deeper than anything that has been done before in the somewhat checkered history that baseball has had at Baltimore. It was held that the suit was as much a thrust at baseball generally as it was at the National league and the American league, and it left more bitterness behind it than anything that ever had taken place in the Baltimore situation.

Montreal Not Ready

Of course the owner of the present Baltimore club is not critical as he has had nothing to do with the suit but he is recognized for his stubborn and successful fight to resist the draft, although he now says he will not oppose the modified draft if the other clubs want it. It is admitted that he was within his rights in fighting although at one time there was a lot of talk of reprisal because he insisted on his stand against being reduced to a suppliant, as he termed it.

Montreal is not likely to enter the International again. The mid-Canadian center still seems to be not quite ready for organized baseball at moderate prices, although there is more baseball sentiment at Montreal than there was 2 years ago.

Transfer of Players

Any action on the proposed changes in the laws which govern the transfer of players to and from the majors to the minors is unlikely at the International meeting although the fact changes has been suggested, will come to the attention of the league and that will open the sentiments of the various members.

Jack Dunn has been quoted as saying that it mattered little to him whether the player received 10 per cent of sale price as he would simply add the 10 per cent to the figure that he thought the player should bring, a plan which would be followed almost without exception by all clubs if the baseball men should agree to the methods. Thus the purchasing done simply would pay the freight.

Carpenters Start Work Rebuilding Stable at Track

RACE TRACK, Tia Juana, Mex., Nov. 29.—More than 500 carpenters were put to work here at daybreak today to rebuild the six 800-foot stables which were destroyed late yesterday when fire of undetermined origin took a toll of five race horses and damage estimated at more than $125,000. No sooner had the fire been brought under control, after burning for an hour and a half, it was announced by James W. Coffroth, president of the Tia Juana Jockey club, that racing would be resumed today as usual and five trucks of lumber from San Diego were sent here for the new stables. The racing was halted yesterday after the fifth of a program of seven events had been run.

When Yale Beat Harvard

The Bulldog feasted on Crimmon meat last Saturday at New Haven, coming from behind after Edward Gehrke, of Cleveland, Ohio, had booted two field goals. Gehrke's defensive play was as brilliant as his work on offense. He is shown stopping "Ducky" Pond, Yale back.

By NORMAN E. BROWN
Written for The Evening News.

These happy days at Yale and wherever Yale men are gathered, Yale not only emerges from its second glorious season of victories over Harvard and Princeton, but finds itself left the outstanding team of the east, with possibly one exception, as a result of late season upsets which clouded the claims of its rivals.

The Bulldogs hadn't feasted on Harvard meat for six years when he took the Crimmon's measure last fall. This year's victory made it two. Princeton, trampled under foot a year ago, fell again before the masterful playing of Jones' men earlier this season.

And while Yale was sliding, slipping and paddling its way to victory over Harvard, Lehigh, undefeated, but tied twice by Princeton, Rutgers and Holy Cross, went down to defeat before Lafayette. Rutgers, tied but once by Lehigh—fell before Bucknell.

Yale emerges with no defeats and two ties recorded against it. Dartmouth and the Army registered the ties.

Only the University of Pennsylvania can challenge Yale's record and Penn. at this writing, must still face Cornell.

Another cause for joy in the Yale camp is the fact that only seven men will depart by graduation next summer. Of course these seven include such kingpins as Ducky Pond, Capt. Lovejoy, Dick Luman and Eddie Bench. But Jones will not have to rebuild his entire team as he did this year.

As for Harvard—There can be little joy at Cambridge. There is ever present the knowledge that Jones has signed a contract to coach Yale three more years. Any Harvard man who can get a laugh out of that deserves to have a football stadium named after him.

BOWLING SCORES

Paul Leuthner and his gang of pinrollers smoked out the Glendale Bottery team last night in a Mercantile league match at the Recreation alleys. The footfitters took the first game by nine pins, but the Smokehouse crew tucked away the remaining two games and the match by safe margins. Reb, anchor man for the shoe salesmen, was high man with 200 pins. Psenner Bros.' crew failed to shock the Central Cleaners until the last game, but the match went to the Cleaners just the same. Caldwell of the losers shot 254 for high individual score. The count:

Missouri Cotton Crop 90 Per Cent Harvested

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 29.—Ninety per cent of the cotton of south-eastern Missouri has been harvested.

RINGSIDE GOSSIP BY FAIR PLAY

NEW YORK, Nov. 29.—Danny Kramer, the little Philadelphia southpaw, is sitting pretty in the chase for Johnny Dundee's featherweight crown, thanks to Lady Luck. He has to lick only one of two good boys in order to annex the title, while one of the two good boys must lick the other before tackling Danny.

That's the way the draw of the state athletic commission came out Tuesday when the boxing authorities met to pick the semi-finalists in the elimination tournament for the title Dundee had to lay aside because of increasing heft.

Luis (Kid) Kaplan of Meriden, Conn., and Joe Lombardo, the Panama flash, were selected by the draw to meet in Madison Square Garden December 12 while Kramer drew a bye.

Meanwhile if Kaplan feels the need of another fight under the belt before the title bout, he can elect to fight either Bobby Garcia or Mike Dundee, whom he already has defeated once, in a semi-final to the Kaplan-Lombardo clash, without impairing in any way his chances of starring in the title match.

That title match, by the way, will not be put "on the air." Tex Rickard has decided not to permit radio broadcasting of any more title bouts which he promotes.

The decision is a great tribute to radio and radio announcers. For his reason is that fights come so realistically over the radio that too many fans stay home and listen in, thereby cutting too deeply into the "gate."

Boxing Notes

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 29.—San Francisco sport writers today united in declaring that Joe Simionich, of the Mont. welterweight, was given a raw decision last night when he lost the nod in his four-round encounter with Lefty Cooper. Simionich handed Cooper a severe lacing but because he won the last round, the judges apparently overlooked Simionich's great showing in the first three. One judge gave it to Cooper, the other called it a draw and the referee cast the deciding vote by handing it to Cooper.

Johnny Adams, former Pacific coast lightweight champion, failed to regain his crown last night from Tommy Carter, who knocked it from Adams' brow several weeks ago. Carter stopped Adams in the first round of their battle at the Hollywood American Legion stadium with a right to Johnny's chin. Adams was out about five minutes. Racehorse Roberts won over Mike Dempsey in the semi-windup. K. O. Kelly had the edge over Young Papke. Billy Hart won over Joe Oaks after a fast battle. Tommy Richards got the decision in his bout with Tommy Raybourne. Jack Lewis finished Young John Y.A. in less than a minute after the battle started. Eddie Spurley won over Champ Monroe in the opener.

Billy Wells, English welter and former title holder, will pay Southern California another visit, according to a telegram received by "Wad" Wadhams, matchmaker at Vernon. Wells will bring three other scrappers west with him.

Italian railway earnings showed improvement in 1923.

LAWRENCE PERRY SAYS

Special Correspondence of The Glendale Evening News, Copyright, 1924.
NEW YORK, Nov. 29.—In his recent visit to the middle west the writer found a pretty general idea among college men for football schedules that would throw games involving natural rivalries into November. Present indications are that things soon may happen which will result in rather a decided step in this direction.

Michigan for instance, has arranged to play the Navy next year and there are rumors she may not be able to connect with Wisconsin as a result. The contract which called for five consecutive games in the Chicago stadium between Chicago and Wisconsin at the ends. It may be that after this there will be regular home and home games between the two institutions.

Very possibly Wisconsin will be found trying to carry out a scheme of natural rivalry games for next November. She has that ambition and has expressed it officially to the writer.

The feeling at Madison is that a season which sees an extremely important game falling along about the middle of October brings about a normal condition. Coaches are hurried and if there is any lesson to be read in this state of affairs it most certainly will be found in the defensive showing of all the big eleven this fall.

T. E. Jones, physical director of the University of Wisconsin, tells the writer that he views with not a little envy the situation among the big three of the east, who, of course, try to win all their games, but as a rule do not permit themselves to be thrown out of their normal stride of development for the Yale-Harvard-Princeton series in November. Victory in this series at once utterly wipes out, any so-called preliminary season upset and this Mr. Jones holds, is the way it should be.

Wisconsin in the course of the years has made several very strong friendships. So have other members of the big ten. An arrangement of games so that conference members would in November meet one another in contests upon which time already had placed the seal of tradition is an idea in which Mr. Jones firmly believes.

The conference directors will meet next week and it may well be that lines of thought as set forth above may be promulgated by more than one member of the board.

When all the odds and ends of the football season are picked and examined, the work that John Heisman has done at Rice Institute in Houston, Texas, will not be overlooked. John has a faculty for organization and a genius for inspiration. He made his reputation in the South at Georgia Tech and then was called north where he spent several years. Now he is back in the land that he loves.

He has taken an institution where football was little better known than an entering college freshman understands the Delphic mysteries, and placed the game squarely upon its feet. The other week Rice beat Texas university. That is significant of what Heisman has done, and bespeaks also the absolute devotion and utter sacrifice which the young men under him have given to their alma mater.

BEENY NEED NOT FEAR SID TERRIS

Conqueror Of Chilean Pug Has Bad Right But Cream-Puff Left

By FAIR PLAY
Special Correspondent of The Glendale Evening News, Copyright, 1924.
NEW YORK, Nov. 29.—Sid Terris who won from Luis Vicentini Wednesday night on points still has to beat Sammy Mandell, the westerner before he can claim a bout with champion Benny Leonard. But Terris' cream puff left with which he piled up his score against the Chilean will never bother Leonard, no matter whether the champion's legs have grown old and decrepit or not. Vicentini is no boxer. He has practically no defense and his offense is confined to a wondrous wallop in his right hand. When he socks 'em with that, they usually stay socked. He landed it once on Terris in the third round but the blow was struck only five seconds before the end of the session and the New Yorker 'ad ample time for recovery.

It is the general belief that Tex Rickard tipped his own hand when he barred broadcasting of ringside fight descriptions by radio from Madison Square Garden. Rickard says it affects attendance. Critics say poor fights and bad matchmaking all the attendance. They add that while fans may like to listen to a dog-fight, they only care to witness a 'rize fight.

Mike Dundee finds himself in somewhat of a quandary as a result of the disgraceful antics of his manager, Dick Curley, a week ago, in protesting with his fists and his heels the decision counting Mike out of the featherweight eliminations after his fight with Danny Kramer.

Dundee adroitly boxing commissions thumbs down attitude toward Curley and seek a parting of the ways with his too belligerent manager, or will he stand by Curley.

Curley, of course, holds a contract for Dundee's "unique and extraordinary services," for a term of years, which calls for a percentage of the boxer's earnings. But as the commission has permanently barred Curley from participating in boxing affairs in this state, and as New Jersey, Connecticut and Massachusetts under their working agreement with New York will follow suit, there is obviously little money in sight for Dundee under Curley's management. It is probable that the commission or a court would invalidate the contract if Dundee asked it, on the ground that Curley has failed to look after Dundee's best interests.

On the other hand, inexcusable as was Curley's outburst, Dundee can scarcely forget that it was rage at a decision adverse to Dundee which made Curley cut loose. There would of course be nothing to prevent Dundee from giving Curley a split on his earnings as long as he comes right back with a lot of words about this fellow Cleveland. Cardinal's star who was given the air before the Bears game because he had played five minutes three or four years ago when he wasn't supposed to.

The point is, or should have been, with Tournament of Roses bosses—the sunny end of California first hand in grab bag. There's no question that Stanford will give Irishmen better contest than Glumy Gus Henderson's warriors could hope to. And the contest is what the gang pays to see when they invade Pasadena on New Year's. They'll see, or should see, a corking good game when Pop Warner tries his tricks against Knute Rockne.

ARRANGE PROGRAM FOR COAST FANS

WTAM, Cleveland Station, To Broadcast Morning Of December 6

WTAM, the Willard station at Cleveland, has booked some excellent talent to give a special program to the fans of the Pacific standard time, on the night of Friday, December 5. The concert, which will last from two to three hours, is being broadcast for the benefit of Pacific coast through their local stations for early western time, according to word received by Henry Kuhn, of Cizek Electric Co., 300 South Brand boulevard, distributors for Willard batteries.

The headliner on the special WTAM program will be Eddy Peabody, who plays more instruments than he has fingers to play them with. When he picks the banjo strings it is transposed from just a piece of musical apparatus in a jazz band to a truly solo instrument and Eddie's nimble fingers find notes and chords and harmonic combinations that banjo experts claim are impossible. He also plays the ukelele and the guitar. Eddy is a native son of California, born of Yankee parents.

Assisting Artists
From the Spanish guitar he will go to the steel guitar of the Pacific Islands. Eddy probably will take listeners to the concert completely around the world on his strings. The violin of the middle European races, the mandolin of Italy, the Chinese fiddle, the instruments of the Pacific Islands, and right on across to America again where he will "jazz it up" on all of them.

The orchestra for the occasion, one of Cleveland's best, is Guy Lombardo's Royal Canadians. They have a unique way of playing their own arrangements of modern music. Carmen Lombardo, one of the three brothers around which the orchestra is built, is a singer and composer as well as an orchestra member.

SPORTDOM ALL OVER

By JOSEPH L. KELLEY
Of The Evening News Staff.

The Plasterer didn't get away with his flop. Lower court was tipped off. Fred got $7,500 for doing a tail-spin at Culver City, so Tony Fuente could claim the American heavy title next to Dempsey. Great stuff—this grooming-for-the-Dempsey stuff. The boys can't meet Jack on a square basis, so they get their heads together and play that little game known as "You-Tickle-Me-and-I'll-Tickle-You." Fuente has been a party to more "set-ups" than King Tut was years buried. "But"—quoting the well known Bible—"the greatest of these" is Fuente.

Fuente is a Mexican. Mexicans are easily led. Tony may have all earmarks of contender for Dempsey's title but he's using pretty shaky ring for bringing it before "ring worms," remember. Barnum said there's "one every minute" so the American public, listening to the press agent for this Mexican reel off reams and reams of copy on his fighting corona, stormed the gates of "Windy" Windsor's dance emporium a couple of weeks back to see just what kind of man this "another Daniel come to judgment" was.

They found out. Any full-grown man who will put his head together with Fred Fulton on a "tail-spin" is something else besides a Mexican—he's no good, employing good, plain Mother Tongue. And that's what Tony did. If Tony has the goods and the common sense of an ordinary, tolerable critter he'd try to get there on his own. Instead he wanted to walk into Dempsey's title with a tuxedo and silk topper on and both ears intact.

Jack Dempsey need have no fear of the boys who work in that direction. In the first place, such action is prima facie evidence they can't fight. If they could they wouldn't play hide-and-go-seek with professional "fall guys" like the long boy from Minnesota.

Well—it's all settled. The Irishmen will do their stuff at the Tournament of Roses. Pop Warner's Huskies will see how their stuff works against the better part of Ireland. It's goin' to be a great battle, boys. Hot dog! When these two parties get set for the kick-off Ye Ed estimates more people will be in Pasadena than this home of millionaires will see for a long, long time.

Which leads to a few words expounded by Mayor Robinson the other day. The mayor, in no uncertain terms, let it be known that Tournament of Roses bosses should pick a team from Southern California to oppose the Irishman. Lot of horse-sense in those words, mayor. You're boosting Glendale, Los Angeles and all other communities of the sunny end of California, including Pasadena when you talk that way.

This little scandal that popped up with all suddenness of a Mexican revolution over at Trojan camp didn't act as a boost for U. S. C. stock in the argument to oppose Irishmen. But Mayor Robinson can come right back with a lot of words about this fellow Cleveland. Cardinal's star who was given the air before the Bears game because he had played five minutes three or four years ago when he wasn't supposed to.

The point is, or should have been, with Tournament of Roses bosses—the sunny end of California first hand in grab bag. JOHN B. FOSTER'S VIEWS

Special Correspondent of The Glendale Evening News, Copyright, 1924.

NEW YORK, Nov. 29.—Of all the trips that have been made by baseball players under the direction of major league clubs to the British Isles and Europe, that of 1924 was the most complete failure. The attendance at the games did not amount to much and, instead of playing through France and Italy, it was decided that it would be better to end the journey in Paris and let some of the players return home and others visit around as they pleased until the majority were ready to embark upon the Leviathan for New York.

In France it is asserted that the games were not properly advertised in advance. Criticism is made for the lack of publicity. In England there was no rush to see the players at work, partly because of abominable weather conditions. The time chosen to visit England was about the most unreasonable that could have been selected. The English play their sports in adverse weather, be it they have a great deal of it, but they do not give much time to cricket in the late fall.

If it is impossible to play cricket in England because the weather is not propitious, it is doubly impossible to play baseball, which requires a dry field even more than the game of England, owing to the necessity of a dry ball for the pitchers and hard ground for the fielders and runners.

In Ireland there is a complete failure. There is little interest in Dublin in any kind of sport at the present moment, and the natives of the city were so cold toward baseball, in which so many of their relatives excel in the United States, that they did not turn out two-score to see the opening and only game. When the contest was over the United States players turned about and headed back for Long's American garage.

No particular missionary work was done for baseball, because there have been enough games played during the war and since then to give a pretty good idea of what the game amounts to, so far as the English and French are concerned.

It is generally believed that a wrong time was taken to send two teams abroad, and that a wrong impression had been gained as to the probable interest that would be taken in such a visit. It is also suggested in messages from abroad that the teams were of no particular interest to the foreigners. They did not represent the champion teams of the United States in that Chicago finished last in American league and the Giants were beaten in the world series right on the eve of their departure abroad.

The non-success of the trip this year probably will put an end for some time to any other attempts to invade England and France to show off baseball as a speculation. The cost was heavier in proportion in 1924 than it has been on other trips, because traveling expenses are vastly higher than they were in other years.

The general impression is that the promoters of the trip this year were badly informed as to the desire of foreign sport loving enthusiasts to see their teams, and took a chance that was not warranted so far as looking upon the journey as a money-making venture.

The better time to play ball in England is in the spring, but that happens to be the time when players of the United States are preparing for the games in their own leagues. They cannot visit England when the weather is best there, and they cannot play good ball in England when the conditions prevent them from doing so.

ST. LOUIS GIANTS PLAY WHITE SOX

Emerson Or Kenner To Hurt For Local Team; Bert Whaling To Catch

The St. Louis Giants will make their first appearance in Glendale tomorrow afternoon in nearly a year, when they meet the White Sox in a regular scheduled Southern California Winter league game at the ball park on San Fernando road. Several scouts from eastern clubs will be on hand to look over several players to judge their ability and possibilities in higher circles.

Jack Emerson will probably draw the pitching assignment for the White Sox, according to Boss Frank Kerwin. Emerson hurled good ball against the Pasadena Merchants two weeks ago, and showed up fairly well against the Colored All-Stars last Sunday at Goodyear park. There is a possibility that Ken Penner, pitching ace of the Vernon Tigers will get in the fray and do the hurling for the locals.

Bert Whaling, formerly with the Boston Red Sox, will work behind the plate. Others in the lineup will be Fahler, at second; Bill Shields at third, Burger at first, Manager Ray French at short, Dorman, O'Brien and Kershtein in the gardens.

SOUTHERN TEAMS ARE TRUE SPORTS

Lawrence Perry After Trip To Georgia Describes Spirit At Colleges

By LAWRENCE PERRY
Special Correspondent of The Glendale Evening News, Copyright, 1924.
BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Nov. 29.

—Pursing en route to various football grid irons where Thanksgiving Day games were to be played, football players and partisans of several universities gathered in Atlanta and made of it a clearing house of football fact, rumor and report.

At luncheon at one of the leading Atlanta clubs the writer met three football teams and their coaches together with alumni of a dozen southern institutions. There may be other southern cities where the very tang of football is in the air—there undoubtedly are—but certainly no community, north, east, south or west, which the writer has visited in the course of his gridiron peregrinations, has shown greater enthusiasm for the autumn game, or more adequate knowledge thereof than Atlanta.

It is the home of Georgia Tech and Oglethorpe; the University of Georgia is within easy reach and the population of this southern metropolis includes alumni groups of about every prominent set of learning the land over.

Georgia Tech Gossip

Although it lies a year away the absorbing topic of conversation was the resumption of football relations between Georgia and Georgia Tech next fall, the beginning every one hopes of a splendid, sportsmanlike rivalry that will go on through the years with ever growing accretions of that flavor which rises from tradition.

The writer has long advocated the playing of this game not only because the two institutions are geographical rivals but their students and alumni are of the same fine sort. And the finest of that sort will surely be demonstrated when the two meet next fall and every fall thereafter.

They say the game would have been restored long ago had there not been fears that the high pitch of partisanship as between alumni of the two institutions would result in an atmosphere not conducive to the best interests of intercollegiate sport in the south.

Sportsmanship Dominates
Perhaps there was a time, when football was younger in Atlanta, when apprehensions of the sort were justified. But that time has passed.

It is recognized there as everywhere in Dixie that above the question of merely winning football games is the highest interest of firm and enduring intercollegiate friendship. This point was particularly emphasized upon the occasion of the recent visit of Vanderbilt to Atlanta where the adherents of Tech proved most abundantly that their spirit of hospitality and friendly fellowship was as warm and lavish in effect as it could possibly have been under the stimulus of victory.

Vanderbilt men departed from Atlanta thrilled and inspired by the treatment they received there and that Nashville will take pattern when Tech visits the Vanderbilt stadium at some future time is foregone. In this way the finer metal of sporting spirit is resolved, emblematic of generous partisanship.

Similarly, the Georgia-Georgia Tech game next season will be marked by an abundance of generous rivalry and good feeling and the contest in consequence will at once take its place as one of the southern classics, one of the national classics.

Eloquent Defense

The voice of the south Atlantic branch of the southern conference has not been still in Atlanta. Here is a brief for Washington and Lee, the littles member of the conference coming from a most eloquent spokesman.

"If," spoke the W. & L. man, "Washington and Lee wins from North Carolina state and Florida she will finish her conference season with five victories and one tie."

"What position of any team in the conference could be better than that?" And where does Centre figure in a southern championship? It is true she has beaten Alabama but I do not recall any other southern team of strength she has played aside from Kentucky. They defeated Kentucky 7-0. W. & L. beat Kentucky 10-7. West Virginia scored 2-2 touchdowns on Centre which in turn kicked two field goals. West Virginia could score but one touchdown on W. & L. and that in the last minute of play in a game in which the generals scored more first downs. I do not believe Centre has any stronger eleven than W. & L."

Perhaps not. The pride of personal opinion is what makes natural argument.
